Hospital Air Conditioning Program Planned by Board

First step in a program to provide general air conditioning for Memorial Hospital here was taken by the hospital's Board of Trustees at their regular meeting Monday night.

The program is to be developed as rapidly as possible during the future as additional funds become available for improvements.

Funds contributed to the hospital by wills and otherwise for improvements, not toward operation expenses, will be used for this purpose.

Work is expected to start Wednesday following a long study by the trustees, aided by recommendations from engineers and hospital authorities. The air conditioning system is to conform with modern methods being followed by hospitals with due regard for the safety and benefit of patients. It is said that requirements for hospitals air conditioning offers numerous problems not faced by such improvement in most other types of buildings.

THE FIRST work arranged for will be done by the Associated Plumbers and Heaters in accordance with recommendations of

Quake Victims Being Sought

257 Tremors Counted In Greek Island Area

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Greek sailors combed the rubble ruins of Thira Island today, seeking 20 persons reported missing since death-dealing earthquakes and tidal waves rocked the Aegean Islands south of Greece.

Prime Minister Constantine Karamanlis' office announced the casualty total from yesterday's upheaval also included 42 killed and 51 injured. All were on Thira, most in the town of Santorini, except five injured on the neighboring island of Amorgos.

Thousands of homeless spent the night in the fields. Minor earth shocks continued through the night and into the morning. The Athens observatory recorded 257 tremors of varying intensity.

The first eyewitness reports from Greek reporters on Thira, southernmost island of the Cyclades group and the home of some 10,000 persons, said the first quake lasted 45 seconds and struck just after sunrise.

Most of the casualties were women and children. Their men already had left for the fields to cultivate the wine grapes for which the island is noted.

THE SCREAMS and moans of those trapped guided them as they rushed back to Santorini.

Serious property damage also was reported from Amorgos, 25 miles northeast of Thira. The tidal waters flooded low-lying farmlands on other islands and washed up or wrecked fishing boats, but little other damage was reported.

Seasoned by a series of quakes in recent years, the Greek government sped aid to the stricken areas.

King Paul and Queen Frederika interrupted a holiday on the island of Corfu to hasten to Thira.

A destroyer from the U. S. 6th Fleet was ordered to Santorini with water and medical supplies.

This is for that boy, girl or man who left a quart jar containing a small snake for identification.

The first thing I noticed was that the snake, approximately 14 inches long, had been killed.

It was a water snake, not poisonous, and one of the kind that eat many insects, rodents, etc.

There are very few poisonous snakes in Fayette County, except along Rattlesnake Creek, where the little prairie rattlers, massasaugas or pygmy rattlesnakes are found, and the extreme southern part where an occasional copperhead has been reported.

The remainder of the county is supposed to be entirely free of venomous snakes.

Personally when I run across a non-poisonous snake in its native habitat, I never kill it. Snakes probably are the most misunderstood and unnecessarily feared of all wild things in this part of the country.

General Electric Co. engineers following their inspection of the hospital here.

This start on the general program will cost approximately $4,500. General Electric equipment will be used.

The plan to be followed is based upon extension of the air conditioning service, step by step, within the hospital in the future.

One unit, in the surgical division, and some equipment in one or two other sections of the hospital, have been giving service. The major

King and Queen Named For Junior Fair Here

Carolyn Crago of the Miami Trace Rd. has been named Queen of the Fayette County Junior Fair and will reign all during Fair week, July 24-28.

Probably the only elective monarch in these parts, Queen Carolyn was named to the post Monday evening by the Junior Fair board, of which she is a member.

Named as her king and escort for the Fair was Roger Sollars of the Greenfield-Sabina Rd., also a Junior Fair Board member.

Queen Carolyn and King Roger will go through a formal coronation at the Fair and will reign supreme throughout the Fair week.

In addition, the king and queen will represent Fayette County at State Fair on youth day in Columbus Aug. 24. Kings and queens from every part of Ohio will be there for the ceremonies and other activities.

A full court was named by the Junior Fair Board at the same meeting. Joan Little and Marilyn Heistand were elected the queen's court attendants and Gene Gustin and Roger Bonham were elected to be their escorts.

The queen was selected by the group at their regular meeting on the basis of her contribution to community life, personality and popularity. The King and the court were selected on the same basis.

NOMINATIONS for the posts were made by committees from the Junior Fair Board. A group of

"I did not expect this assignment. There were many other capable men who could have done an excellent job. But I'll do the very best I can to represent the Democratic party and the American people."

Although Clement has shied away from publicly committing himself to any candidate, he has expressed himself as friendly toward Stevenson.

At the recent Governors' Conference, he described Stevenson as the "greatest candidate ever to be denied the presidency of the United States."

Democratic leaders apparently closely considered Clement's views on the potentially explosive segregation issue within the party. The Tennessee governor has avoided taking strong stands either way. He was quoted at the Governors' Conference as saying that no public schools in Tennessee had been or would be desegregated without a court order.

One exception, he said, was Oak Ridge, Tenn., which is operated by the federal government.

Butler said he felt Clement would discuss the desegregation issue "in a way that is not offensive to anyone."

Foreign Aid Cut Chief Sees Ike Plea Ignored

GOP Leader Reports No Big Effort To Add To Spending Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sponsor of a heavily cut foreign aid money bill said today he expects the House to turn a deaf ear to an appeal from President Eisenhower for a "substantial" restoration of funds.

Rep. Passman (D-Ala.) referred to scheduled House action tomorrow on the $3.6 billion foreign aid measure approved by the House Appropriations Committee. The bill is some $1.4 billion below Eisenhower's request.

"I do not anticipate an increase," by the House, Passman said, adding that if the Senate later votes for a bigger amount he will not "capitulate" in his efforts to keep a Senate-House compromise close to the lower House figure.

House Republican Leader Martin (Mass.) handed to the Senate yesterday responsibility for any move to add funds to the bill. He announced at the start of debate that the House GOP leadership would make no concerted effort to restore money although, he said "we believe the President is right" in protesting the cut.

EISENHOWER mentioned no specific amount in a statement issued in Gettysburg, Pa., where he is convalescing from an intestinal operation. He indicated earlier he would be satisfied with about $4½ billion.

He asked that "a substantial part" of the funds cut be restored, and said it is his "earnest conviction that the successive slashes that the committees of Congress have made in mutual security funds are not in the best interests of the United States of America."

Martin said he expects the Senate will "exercise better judgment" and "correct the errors that we made here" by the foreign aid cut.

"It makes no sense at this time, when the Soviet empire looks like it might be tottering or at least in serious trouble, to hold back on the defense of our country," Martin told the House. "That's exactly what this bill would do."

"My friends, I ask you with all seriousness, can we afford to cut the amount below what we (Eisenhower) says is necessary for the security of this nation?"

Passman argued with equal vigor.

Ames, Iowa, Chosen for Research Lab

An 18-million-dollar animal disease research laboratory, for which Fayette County made a strong bid, will be built at Iowa State College in Ames, Iowa.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson announced Tuesday noon that he had selected the site at Iowa State, a school he once attended.

Benson said an advisory committee charged with selecting a site for the laboratory had recommended the Iowa location after surveying a number of proposed areas near land-grant veterinary schools. The site committee failed to follow through on a suggestion that they visit Ohio before making their choice.

Two local farm leaders, Extension Agent W. W. Montgomery and Sam Marting, made a presentation for Fayette County at a meeting of the site committee in St. Louis two weeks ago. Their trip was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Area Development Committee.

Congress now has under consideration a request for funds to build the laboratory which will provide research on 25 animal diseases.

Steel Mediation To Open Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal mediators today fixed Thursday as the "probable" day to begin joint meetings in Pittsburgh of industry and union representatives in an effort to end the steel strike.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, announced at the same time that mediators will hold preliminary meetings with both sides today and tomorrow.

Finnegan said he would meet here this evening with David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, and Arthur G. Goldberg, union counsel.

There will be a preliminary session tomorrow, probably in Finnegan's office here about noon, with an industrial group headed by John A. Stephens, vice president of U. S. Steel.

Finnegan said that he and Clyde Mills, assistant director of the mediation service, and Special Asst. Robert H. Moore, would attend the joint meetings between management and union officials.

THE PRELIMINARY sessions, he said, will be conducted in order to get a "better understanding" of the issues prior to beginning of the joint meetings.

The 16-day strike has idled some 730,000 workers.

During the long weeks of contract debate, the federal government remained entirely out of the picture. But after exploratory talks in Pittsburgh, it decided to take the initiative.

Negotiations collapsed July 1, six hours before the strike that has idled 650,000 steelworkers and cut the nation's steelmaking production by 90 per cent.

Neither side has made any move toward resuming contract talks, indicating they have not retreated from their position.

Industry offered a 52-month contract at terms valued by the industry at 17.23 cents an hour per employee for the first year. The union pegged the offer at

Three Children Hurt in Crash

Taken to Hospital For Examination

Three children were taken to Memorial Hospital early Tuesday afternoon after car-truck collision on W. Court St. at the junction with Circle Ave.

The three were: Rita Sue Scott, 5; Michael Scott, 3; and Rebecca Scott, 4.

They were hospitalized after an accident in which a car driven by Mrs. Rodman Scott, their mother, collided with the rear of a Farm Bureau truck driven by Andrew C. Williams, 19.

Extent of the children's injuries was not immediately determined, but Robert Hurles, who identified himself as a brother of Mrs. Scott said when contacted at the hospital that he did "not believe they were serious." Mrs. Scott was also to be treated, police said.

Police said the accident occurred when an unidentified vehicle came to a stop at the junction of W. Court St. and Leesburg and Clinton Aves. The truck driven by Wil

2 Hoaxers in Kidnap Case May Get Long Jail Terms

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—A longshoreman and a railroad clerk face up to 25 years in prison if convicted of tormenting Mrs. Beatrice Weinberger with a false claim they held her kidnapped baby boy.

The two young men, both unemployed, were to be arraigned today in Ridgewood Felony Court, Queens. They are charged with attempting to extort $5,000 from the heartbroken mother and giving false information about a kidnapping.

Arrested were Robert F. Giebler, 27, longshoreman, Jackson Heights, Queens, and Gordon T. Rowell, 24, railroad clerk, Sunnyside, Queens. Both are married and Giebler has three children.

Meanwhile, there was no trace of 5-week-old Peter Weinberger or any solid evidence he is still alive.

The blue-eyed baby was snatched from his carriage in the patio of the Weinberger home here last Wednesday.

The FBI plans to enter the case in force tomorrow—one week after the kidnapping. Under the Lindbergh law, the FBI can move into a kidnapping case after seven days or after the victim has been transported across state lines.

POLICE SAID Giebler and Rowell hatched their cruel hoax in a Queens bar Sunday.

The two allegedly made four telephone calls to the Weinberger home Sunday night and early yesterday. They told Mrs. Weinberger she would find her infant son in a Queens church if she paid the $5,000 ransom.

Twice the 32-year-old mother took $5,000 and drove off from her home in desperate hope of embracing her baby again.

The first telephone call ordered her to drop the money in a parked car in Queens. She spent an agonizing 70 minutes at the location but no one showed up. Then she returned home.

Later, another call told her to leave the money in a Queens bar. Again the contact failed.

Police rushed to the bar and soon picked up the two men.

"They said they weren't interested in the money," Deputy Police Inspector Raymond V. Martin said. "They just wanted to see the cops run around."

Sen. Knowland Gets Assurance In Conference

Presidential Press Aide Nods in Agreement as Announcement is Made

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower is running for a second term.

Republican Senate Leader Knowland disclosed this at a dramatic news conference on the Gettysburg College campus today as White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stood by nodding in agreement.

Knowland said the President told a meeting of Republican congressional leaders he feels in better shape than he did when he made his Feb. 29 announcement that he would seek re-election.

"We are looking forward to a very vigorous and active campaign under his leadership," Knowland said.

"Are you telling us," a reporter asked, "that the President is going to keep his hat in the ring?"

"I'm telling you precisely that," Knowland replied.

He added that Eisenhower "left no doubt in anyone's mind" that he will run again despite his June 9 intestinal operation.

EISENHOWER himself appeared before reporters and photographers before and after a 67-minute strategy session with the Capitol Hill leaders.

He looked a little pale and obviously had lost weight. The rough textured sport shirt he wore was loose around his neck. But his color was better and his step was firmer than when he left Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington a week ago last Saturday.

Knowland was asked whether Eisenhower had authorized him to make the statement about second term plans.

"No," Knowland replied, "but he knew we were going to meet the press afterward and he knew we always try to make frank reports."

Eisenhower's second major illness had touched off a new world-wide outbreak of political speculation on whether the President would stay in the race.

The first big round of speculation, generated when Eisenhower suffered his heart attack in Denver Sept. 24, 1955, had subsided only three months earlier when the President announced he would seek another term.

During the three weeks the President spent in Walter Reed Hospital recuperating from his major abdominal operation he dropped not a single public hint as to what his political course would be as a result of the new illness. Aides insisted that he did not discuss the matter with any

Ex-Wrestler Handed Life Prison Term

CLEVELAND (AP)—A former carnival wrestler and street cleaner of Altoona, Pa., was convicted of first degree murder by a three-judge court yesterday and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The defendant, Louis C. Statler, 69, charged with the strangulation death of Gloria Ann Ferry, 18, of Altoona, had waived a jury trial.

On the panel in Cuyahoga Common Pleas Court were Judges Joseph H. Silbert, Felix T. Matia and John J. Mahon.

Judge Silbert said the panel recommended mercy for Statler which saved him from death in Ohio's electric chair, because he was a "psychopathic" type even though legally sane and because Statler probably would not live long enough to hope for a parole.

The life imprisonment sentence means Statler could be paroled in 20 years provided the governor first commutes his sentence to second degree murder.

Dan W. Duffey and David Ralph Hertz, Statler's court-appointed attorneys, said they would file a motion for a new trial. The question of whether to appeal the verdict will be decided later.

Miss Ferry had been Statler's housekeeper in Altoona, where he was charged with contributing to her delinquency. The state charged that he brought the girl to Cleveland and strangled her to prevent her from testifying against him.

Republican Senate Leader Knowland disclosed this at a dramatic news conference on the Gettysburg College campus today as White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stood by nodding in agreement.

Knowland said the President told a meeting of Republican congressional leaders he feels in better shape than he did when he made his Feb. 29 announcement that he would seek re-election.

"We are looking forward to a very vigorous and active campaign under his leadership," Knowland said.

"Are you telling us," a reporter asked, "that the President is going to keep his hat in the ring?" "I'm telling you precisely that," Knowland replied.

He added that Eisenhower "left no doubt in anyone's mind" that he will run again despite his June 9 intestinal operation.

EISENHOWER himself appeared before reporters and photographers before and after a 67-minute strategy session with the Capitol Hill leaders.

He looked a little pale and obviously had lost weight. The rough textured sport shirt he wore was loose around his neck. But his color was better and his step was firmer than when he left Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington a week ago last Saturday.

Knowland was asked whether Eisenhower had authorized him to make the statement about second term plans.

"No," Knowland replied, "but he knew we were going to meet the press afterward and he knew we always try to make frank reports."

Eisenhower's second major illness had touched off a new world-wide outbreak of political speculation on whether the President would stay in the race.

The first big round of speculation, generated when Eisenhower suffered his heart attack in Denver Sept. 24, 1955, had subsided only three months earlier when the President announced he would seek another term.

During the three weeks the President spent in Walter Reed Hospital recuperating from his major abdominal operation he dropped not a single public hint as to what his political course would be as a result of the new illness. Aides insisted that he did not discuss the matter with any

Ex-Wrestler Handed Life Prison Term

CLEVELAND (AP)—A former carnival wrestler and street cleaner of Altoona, Pa., was convicted of first degree murder by a three-judge court yesterday and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The defendant, Louis C. Statler, 69, charged with the strangulation death of Gloria Ann Ferry, 18, of Altoona, had waived a jury trial.

On the panel in Cuyahoga Common Pleas Court were Judges Joseph H. Silbert, Felix T. Matia and John J. Mahon.

Judge Silbert said the panel recommended mercy for Statler which saved him from death in Ohio's electric chair, because he was a "psychopathic" type even though legally sane and because Statler probably would not live long enough to hope for a parole.

The life imprisonment sentence means Statler could be paroled in 20 years provided the governor first commutes his sentence to second degree murder.

Dan W. Duffey and David Ralph Hertz, Statler's court-appointed attorneys, said they would file a motion for a new trial. The question of whether to appeal the verdict will be decided later.

Miss Ferry had been Statler's housekeeper in Altoona, where he was charged with contributing to her delinquency. The state charged that he brought the girl to Cleveland and strangled her to prevent her from testifying against him.

Quake Victims Being Sought

257 Tremors Counted In Greek Island Area

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Greek sailors combed the rubble ruins of Thira Island today, seeking 20 persons reported missing since death-dealing earthquakes and tidal waves rocked the Aegean Islands south of Greece.

Prime Minister Constantine Karamanlis' office announced the casualty total from yesterday's upheaval also included 42 killed and 51 injured. All were on Thira, most in the town of Santorini, except five injured on the neighboring island of Amorgos.

Thousands of homeless spent the night in the fields. Minor earth shocks continued through the night and into the morning. The Athens observatory recorded 257 tremors of varying intensity.

The first eyewitness reports from Greek reporters on Thira, southernmost island of the Cyclades group and the home of some 10,000 persons, said the first quake lasted 45 seconds and struck just after sunrise.

Most of the casualties were women and children. Their men already had left for the fields to cultivate the wine grapes for which the island is noted.

THE SCREAMS and moans of those trapped guided them as they rushed back to Santorini.

Serious property damage also was reported from Amorgos, 25 miles northeast of Thira. The tidal waters flooded low-lying farmlands on other islands and washed up or wrecked fishing boats, but little other damage was reported.

Seasoned by a series of quakes in recent years, the Greek government sped aid to the stricken areas.

King Paul and Queen Frederika interrupted a holiday on the island of Corfu to hasten to Thira.

A destroyer from the U. S. 6th Fleet was ordered to Santorini with water and medical supplies.

This is for that boy, girl or man who left a quart jar containing a small snake for identification.

The first thing I noticed was that the snake, approximately 14 inches long, had been killed.

It was a water snake, not poisonous, and one of the kind that eat many insects, rodents, etc.

There are very few poisonous snakes in Fayette County, except along Rattlesnake Creek, where the little prairie rattlers, massasaugas or pygmy rattlesnakes are found, and the extreme southern part where an occasional copperhead has been reported.

The remainder of the county is supposed to be entirely free of venomous snakes.

Personally when I run across a non-poisonous snake in its native habitat, I never kill it. Snakes probably are the most misunderstood and unnecessarily feared of all wild things in this part of the country.

Hitskip Driver Sought As Sheriff Hays Waits Near Chillicothe House

Sheriff Orland Hays Tuesday morning sat impatiently in his cruiser parked in an alley in Chillicothe, just waiting.

Nearby, Deputy Sheriff W. A. McGlone sat and waited, too, in a cruiser of the Ross County sheriff's department.

They wanted to question Ernest B. Cockerell, a former Chillicothe councilman, about a hit-skip collision about 8:10 p. m. Monday near the Sugar Creek bridge on the Leesburg Pike.

After the collision, Herman East, 29, of 1203 Washington Ave., is said to have stopped a passing car and asked the driver, to follow and get the license number of an automobile which had hit East's car.

The name of the driver who got the number and reported it to the sheriff was not immediately available, because, it was explained, Sheriff Hays had taken up the chase immediately and had not yet had time to make a full report.

The license reported to Sheriff Hays was said to have been issued to Cockerell.

THE CAR believed to have been involved in the crash was reported to have headed toward Greenfield. Greenfield police were notified. They, in turn, notified the sheriff's office at Chillicothe at 8:40 p. m. when they failed to spot the car in Greenfield.

Officers theorized that the hunted vehicle had headed for Chillicothe from Greenfield over Route 28.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Hays went to Chillicothe to continue the search, which, by that time, was centered on Cockerell.

Word from Chillicothe at mid-morning Tuesday was that, although Cockerell's garage at the rear of his home was locked, a car was inside.

Sheriff Hays parked his cruiser in the alley across the drive into the garage and took up his vigil.

Hospital Program

program now adopted provides for carrying service to other parts of the institution in the future as conditions permit.

IN THE beginning of this new program, elimination of one of the greatest sources of heat will be carried out by insulating the sterilizer in the central part of the hospital and installing a seven-ton unit in the sterilizing room with ducts leading to other areas. The children's ward will receive immediate benefit in this way. By eliminating this greatest source of heat the effects, it is said, will be felt in various other parts of the hospital.

The system being established, board members say, takes into consideration the use of water with a minimum of loss, which will be an important saving during the future.

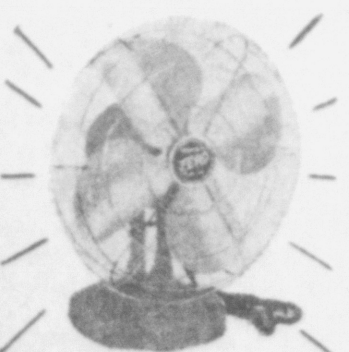

There were three bids and plans offered on the project. Aside from routine business, the air conditioning problem occupied the entire attention of the trustees at this meeting, except for approval of the monthly hospital report as submitted to the board by Miss Christine Evans, administrator.

THIS JUNE report gave the following general information: general admissions 345; infants born in institution during month 65; highest number of patients any day 82; lowest number for like period 55; out-patients given service 420; total patient days of service during month 2,015; major surgical operation 54; minor operation 120; laboratory tests made 2,312; X-ray exposures 729; pounds of laundry handled by hospital laundry department 31,760.

The financial part of the report was said by the directors to be satisfactory.

At the March meeting the President was asked what he would do if he found out before the Republican nominating convention "that your physical condition was below the par you had expected," Eisenhower replied:

Following up on that, another reporter remarked:

"Mr. President, you seem to be saying if at any time you feel that your health is not up to carrying the burden of the presidency, you will withdraw from the race. Is that correct?"

"Well now," Eisenhower replied with a smile, "don't hold me down if I get a week's case of the flu or something else. I am talking about my general, let's say, organic fitness for the job, as I see it, and that means carrying a burden of hard work right on through the year and through the months."

"Now, any time I believe that has failed to the point of inability to perform the job properly, then that goes before the American people instantly."

Plane Passenger Killed by Prop

WINDSOR, Ont. (P)—A propeller tore loose from a four-engine Trans-Canada airliner yesterday and disintegrated while the plane was flying at 8,000 feet over Michigan. One blade ripped through the cabin, killing a woman passenger and injuring 10 other persons.

The turbo-prop Vickers Viscount which carried 30 passengers, was about 35 miles southwest of here when the accident occurred. The pilot made an emergency landing at Windsor Airport on two engines.

Killed was Mrs. Robert J. Lipfert, 31, whose husband is a doctor at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. She was from Hanover, Ont.

Farm Leader Eyes Steel Settlement

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (P)—The president of the American Farm Bureau says a "soft" settlement of the steel strike could go a long way toward putting steel costs beyond the reach of the consumer.

Charles B. Shuman of Chicago also had this to say to the Southern Region Farm Bureau here:

"It seems to me that the present steel strike illustrates what some of us have been suspicious of all along—that both big business and labor have little concern for the consumer. It looks like they are out to get all the traffic will bear."

British Reject Arms Cut Idea By Russians

LONDON (P)—Prime Minister Eden has told Soviet Premier Bulganin Russia is more than 10 years behind the West in trimming her armed forces.

Eden said in a letter to Bulganin, made public last night, that he welcomes Moscow's recent announcement it was demobilizing 1,200,000 men.

But, the Prime Minister said, Moscow was only copying what Western powers have been doing since 1945.

Eden rejected as "not practicable" at this time Bulganin's suggestion the West make a similar cut in its over-all armed strength and also trim its forces in West Germany.

Bulganin made his proposals in letters last month to Eden, President Eisenhower and the government heads of France, West Germany, Italy and Canada. The Soviet chief said his government was taking 30,000 of its troops out of East Germany. Italy already has rejected the proposal.

Eden's answer left the door open to a further study of the Bulganin troop reduction proposal. The Soviet leader had called it a possible "first step" toward a complete withdrawal of foreign troops from Germany and a final peace settlement.

There is no substitute, the Prime Minister said, for an international disarmament agreement providing for effective control and inspection and measures for protection against surprise attack.

As for the Senate correcting House "errors," Passman told his colleagues, the House itself has responsibility for looking after national security and it is composed of "435 of the finest Americans you have in this country."

He added that even "10 of the healthiest men in America" could not be doing all that Eisenhower is credited by aides with doing, and said Congressmen should realize presidential requests are not all made by Eisenhower himself but frequently by others in his name.

Passman noted that some $6.8 billion remains in funds unspent from previous years' foreign aid appropriations. "We could have gone through this year without one dime and it would have never hurt the program," he said.

Clerics See Progress Aid In Air Crash

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (P)—Two men of God saw the Grand Canyon air disaster as a possible beacon to progress in the air at a mass funeral and burial attended by friends and relatives of the crash victims yesterday.

Sixty-seven coffins were lowered into the ground on a pine-covered knoll of the Flagstaff Cemetery. They symbolized the bodies of the 70 victims aboard the Trans World Airlines plane that presumably collided with a United Airlines DC7 on June 30, killing all 128 aboard. Remains of three victims were sent home for burial.

"Someone asks: 'Where was God when these two planes came together?'" said the Rev. Wyburn Skidmore of the Protestant Flagstaff Federated Church.

"Ah, He was in the same place as He was when Jesus Christ was hanged on a cross. His heart knows agony along with ours."

"This sudden agonizing loss is not altogether had because much progress may result from it."

Elder Delbert L. Stapley of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints in Salt Lake City said God "is not responsible for these tragedies, but imperfect man is victimized by his own inventions."

Such disasters serve a purpose of stressing the need for advances in technology, the Mormon elder said, and "the sacrifice of life therefore is not always in vain."

Plane Passenger Killed by Prop

WINDSOR, Ont. (P)—A propeller tore loose from a four-engine Trans-Canada airliner yesterday and disintegrated while the plane was flying at 8,000 feet over Michigan. One blade ripped through the cabin, killing a woman passenger and injuring 10 other persons.

The turbo-prop Vickers Viscount which carried 30 passengers, was about 35 miles southwest of here when the accident occurred. The pilot made an emergency landing at Windsor Airport on two engines.

Killed was Mrs. Robert J. Lipfert, 31, whose husband is a doctor at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. She was from Hanover, Ont.

Farm Leader Eyes Steel Settlement

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (P)—The president of the American Farm Bureau says a "soft" settlement of the steel strike could go a long way toward putting steel costs beyond the reach of the consumer.

Charles B. Shuman of Chicago also had this to say to the Southern Region Farm Bureau here:

"It seems to me that the present steel strike illustrates what some of us have been suspicious of all along—that both big business and labor have little concern for the consumer. It looks like they are out to get all the traffic will bear."

Twining Reports Reds Showed Little

WASHINGTON (P)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining said today he ran up against "a blank wall" when he tried on his visit to Russia to learn something about Soviet bomber production, guided missiles and nuclear weapons.

"Though the welcome mat was laid out with a flourish, a careful hand was kept on the door," the Air Force chief told senators.

"They gave us much less information than is openly available to them about our own Air Force and defense preparations."

Truman and Adlai Take Walk, Talk

CHICAGO (P)—Former President Truman and Adlai Stevenson took a walk this morning, had breakfast together, and, presumably, talked politics.

In meeting Stevenson, Truman apparently brought his social account with the former Illinois governor into balance with that of Gov. Harriman who had a breakfast meeting with the former president upon Truman's return from a trip to Europe. Truman has not given either candidate assurance of personal backing for the nomination.

British Reject Arms Cut Idea By Russians

LONDON (P)—Prime Minister Eden has told Soviet Premier Bulganin Russia is more than 10 years behind the West in trimming her armed forces.

Eden said in a letter to Bulganin, made public last night, that he welcomes Moscow's recent announcement it was demobilizing 1,200,000 men.

But, the Prime Minister said, Moscow was only copying what Western powers have been doing since 1945.

Eden rejected as "not practicable" at this time Bulganin's suggestion the West make a similar cut in its over-all armed strength and also trim its forces in West Germany.

Bulganin made his proposals in letters last month to Eden, President Eisenhower and the government heads of France, West Germany, Italy and Canada. The Soviet chief said his government was taking 30,000 of its troops out of East Germany. Italy already has rejected the proposal.

Eden's answer left the door open to a further study of the Bulganin troop reduction proposal. The Soviet leader had called it a possible "first step" toward a complete withdrawal of foreign troops from Germany and a final peace settlement.

There is no substitute, the Prime Minister said, for an international disarmament agreement providing for effective control and inspection and measures for protection against surprise attack.

Foreign Aid Cut

or for the reduction made by the Appropriations Committee on the basis of a recommendation from a subcommittee he heads.

As for the Senate correcting House "errors," Passman told his colleagues, the House itself has responsibility for looking after national security and it is composed of "435 of the finest Americans you have in this country."

He added that even "10 of the healthiest men in America" could not be doing all that Eisenhower is credited by aides with doing, and said Congressmen should realize presidential requests are not all made by Eisenhower himself but frequently by others in his name.

Passman noted that some $6.8 billion remains in funds unspent from previous years' foreign aid appropriations. "We could have gone through this year without one dime and it would have never hurt the program," he said.

Jet Planes Clash

TAIPEI, Formosa (P)—Chinese Nationalist and Communist jet planes clashed north of Matsu Island in a 10-minute dogfight today. The Nationalists said their planes returned safely after possibly hitting one or more Red MIGs.

APPEARING for pre-trial examination at Supreme court in New York, Winthrop Rockefeller pauses for a cool drink of water. Rockefeller is being sued for $100,000 by Leo Fennelly, attorney for his ex-wife, Bobo Rockefeller. Among other things brought out by testimony was the statement that Rockefeller's net worth is $15 million. (International)

Road-Building Priest Is Handed Sentence

ACQUI, Italy (P)—Don Luigi Schiavetta, a young priest, has been given a five-month suspended sentence for illegally building a road to his isolated village. Nine other members of his "committee of the road" were found guilty of helping him.

Don Schiavetta is the pastor at Ciglione, which had no direct road to nearby towns. The priest asked land owners to allow a road to be built across their property. When they refused, he formed his committee, built the road anyway.

SPRINGFIELD, Ky. (P)—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Grundy were just killing time until their favorite television program would be on.

They took the kids out for a short drive. When they returned the hunt for the television set began.

Clerics See Progress Aid In Air Crash

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (P)—Two men of God saw the Grand Canyon air disaster as a possible beacon to progress in the air at a mass funeral and burial attended by friends and relatives of the crash victims yesterday.

Sixty-seven coffins were lowered into the ground on a pine-covered knoll of the Flagstaff Cemetery. They symbolized the bodies of the 70 victims aboard the Trans World Airlines plane that presumably collided with a United Air Lines DC7 on June 30, killing all 128 aboard. Remains of three victims were sent home for burial.

"Someone asks: 'Where was God when these two planes came together?'" said the Rev. Wyburn Skidmore of the Protestant Flagstaff Federated Church.

"Ah, He was in the same place as He was when Jesus Christ was hanged on a cross. His heart knows agony along with ours."

"This sudden agonizing loss is not altogether bad because much progress may result from it."

Elder Delbert L. Stapley of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints in Salt Lake City said God "is not responsible for these tragedies, but imperfect man is victimized by his own inventions."

Such disasters serve a purpose of stressing the need for advances in technology, the Mormon elder said, and "the sacrifice of life therefore is not always in vain."

Other candidates for queen besides Carolyn and her attendants were Jackie Hoppes, Jo Reiff, Barbara Sue Kneisley and Joan Bonham. Other escort nominees were Bob Rife, Ronnie Sears, Alan Wilt and Bob Montgomery.

Final selection was made only after close elimination voting by the whole board.

At the same session Junior Fair Board members heard Frank Ellis, secretary of the regular Fair Board explain the young people's duties and responsibilities during the Fair. Ellis emphasized the youngsters are considered the spearhead group for the whole Junior Fair.

Gene Gustin, board president, presented members with the identification ribbons they will wear during the Fair.

Junior Fair personnel will get together Wednesday evening to discuss procedures and practices for the Fair. Next regular meeting of the board will be July 23.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: This is about a young friend of mine whom I shall call Ellen. Her husband was killed in the war and they had a son whom he never saw. Ellen made her home with her mother, to whom she was devoted, and filled her life with church work, scout work, and kind deeds to others.

When her son was school age, she went back to work and eventually became engaged to marry a splendid young man. But then her mother was stricken with cancer and died soon after, and her fiancé was killed in a tragic accident.

Six months later, Ellen met Ron, who was some years her junior, and who courted her, insisting the age-difference didn't matter. In her heartbreak and bitterness she turned to him for companionship and became pregnant. When she informed Ron, he planned to marry her, but wanted to keep the news from his parents for six months.

Ellen insisted her parents must know the truth before the wedding, and wrote to them. They began at once to dissuade Ron from marrying her, and even had the chaplain and legal officer at his Army base advise him against it. Meanwhile Ron's squadron was sent to sea and Ellen turned for help to her only resource—a brother, who happens to be an officer in the same branch of service as Ron.

Ellen's brother agreed to pay for her care, on condition that she have nothing more to do with Ron, and write him that the baby died at birth. So that is what Ellen did. Her child, born some weeks ago, is a lovely little girl.

Would it help if someone close to the story were to visit Ron's family or the chaplain at his base, and get them to see Ellen's side of the problem?

V.V.
DEAR V.V.: Perhaps somebody ought to give Ron another chance to think straight, and do the decent thing, in this situation. And the decent thing, in my opinion, would consist in his helping Ellen to pull her life together again, so that both children could claim her openly as mother, in a socially acceptable arrangement.

Taking your story at face value, and assuming that Ron's chaplain—as well as his family and his legal adviser—did counsel him not to marry Ellen, then I feel that Ron has been almost as much misled against as sinning. It seems well nigh incredible that a reputable clergyman, concerned to restore and maintain the health of men's souls, would use his influence to induce a bachelor father-to-be to desert the widow who was bearing his child—when marriage plans were already afoot.

It probably would be lost motion, to visit Ron's parents in hopes of winning them to Ellen's side. Their first reactions to her dilemma suggest that they are close-minded, self-righteous zealots—eager to justify their "mom"-type determination to keep their son on leash, as their puppet. If he is to become a man psychologically, he must break with them, to make the grade.

A talk with Ron himself, and an appeal to his chaplain's second thoughts, might turn the tide in Ellen's behalf—if you speak with tact and honest fervor.

US Wheat, Cotton Crops 'Unneeded'

CINCINNATI (AP)—A federal agriculture official says the United States would not need to harvest its wheat and cotton crops this year.

"We could live out of our inventories," said Walter Berger of Washington, associate director of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Stabilization Service. He said:

"We have enough wheat and cotton stockpiled to take care of all our domestic and export needs and still have a comfortable surplus." Berger added that it is "a blessing to live in a land of superabundance."

Long-Stemmed U. S. Beauty Seldom Fits 'Regular' Size

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—That long-stemmed American beauty also has a short waist, says designer Hannah Troy, who has been measuring customers all over the country to arrive at her new sizing, shown today to some 250 members of the nation's fashion press.

"At least half of the women in the country don't fit into regular sizes," says high-handed Hannah. "They have long legs, but their waists are shorter, so that when they buy a readymade dress they have to spend half again the original price on alterations."

So, going by her statistics, Mrs. Troy shows half her collection in the new shorter-waisted proportions, and all of it in what she calls the "well-shaped look"—carefully curved and constructed clothes built to flatter the feminine figure, whatever its size. She clings for the most part to the sheath silhouette, but softens it with drapery, floating panels and other devices to forestall austerity.

Claire McCardell, high priestess of the casual look, manages to give her offhanded outfits a new look of elegance this year, by subtle variations in cuts, by use of luxurious fabrics and by highlighting a series of dinner-at-home gowns dramatizing the "Empress

Nation's Debt to France Paid By Grateful Successful Man

By JERRY KLEIN
(Central Press Association)

WASHINGTON—This summer as the United States begins a new year, the Treasury is struggling to keep the national debt from exceeding its present level of about $275 billion. That comes to some $1,800 per citizen, a goodly sum if each of us had to pay his share personally.

Yet there once was an American so rich and generous he settled the entire national debt of the United States out of his own pocket! This same man spent 22 years in prison, however, rather than pay a comparatively paltry bill which he felt was unfair. The name of this prideful patriot was James Swan.

Born in Fifehire, Scotland, he came to New England as a penniless immigrant boy of 11. One night in December, 1773, Swan daubed his cheeks with Indian paint and joined the other Sons of Liberty in dumping tea into Boston harbor.

At Bunker Hill he was wounded twice, but it was peace which brought the greatest opportunities to the ambitious Scot. Swan began dealing in tracts of land, acquiring property in at least five states. In 1788, armed with letters of introduction from his Revolutionary comrades-in-arms, the Marquis de Lafayette, Swan embarked on a business trip to France.

WASHINGTON was in debt to Paris for help give the colonies during the Revolution. However, France herself now was trembling on the brink of revolution, hungry for meat and grain. Swan organized a company to send these things from the United States in return for French furniture, clocks and wine. His business soon ran into the millions of dollars.

After the French revolution erupted in all its fury, the rebels sent Swan to Philadelphia as official purchasing agent in the United States.

In exchange for American flour and pork, Swan received such shipments of confiscated property as: "14 cases of looking glasses, 92 dozen fans, 13 dozen walking sticks, three dozen feathers and plumes, one case laces."

However, America was not a good market for such luxuries as feathers and plumes, and France needed cash for her American purposes. The Bank of the United States refused a loan to America's former ally; so did banks in New York and Baltimore.

ONE DAY in 1795, Swan received this letter from Paris: "The debt due to the French republic from the United States of America is placed at the disposal of James Swan and company. He is authorized to secure its settlement and recovery from the said states."

Swan knew America's debt to France to the penny, $2,024,899.93—less than one-thousandth of the present national debt, but a sizable sum in those days.

The shrewd, Scottish businessman stroked his chin in thought. America had indeed been good to the boy who arrived without a penny and had earned a fortune. Now America was being pressed to pay 's debt to France, virtually the entire national debt.

SWAN DECIDED to pay the debt himself! On July 9, 1795, he informed Washington: "The entire American debt was paid and does not exist anymore."

Visiting Europe on business a dozen years later, Swan was sued for $150,000 by a German company. With roaring Scottish indignation, Swan denied he owed the money and "rather than pay it, accepted what amounted to a life sentence" in prison.

He was placed in the Sainte-

Pelagie jail of Paris. From Boston, Swan's wife sent him enough money "to enable him to live in a handsomely furnished apartment and give dinner parties in prison to his friends." However, he refused to allow his wife to pay the claim against him, declaring it "unjust."

After 22 years in prison, Swan finally was freed in the July Revolution of 1830. The "venerable hero of American liberty" died just three days afterward.

The Age 65 Need Not Mean Retirement

Right around here and in practically every locality today, there is noted an increasing attitude of acceptance of the fact that probably most people of the age of 65 or more who are leading an active life, are as valuable to the working world, possibly more so, than they were a score of years before.

The experience of such people, if they remain alert, is of great value.

Our attention was called to this by one of Ohio's metropolitan papers recently, when it mentioned that "the dictionary defines the word Senate as 'an assembly of old men, or elders.'" The other day Sen. Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island became the oldest member of the United States Senate in its history.

"When Sen. Justin S. Morgan of Vermont died in office in 1898 he was 88 years, eight months and 15 days old, Sen. Green passed that mark last Sunday, becoming the oldest man ever to sit in the upper house of Congress."

Checking into this matter further it was interesting to find that in the first American Congress no Senator was over 65 years of age. In the present Congress 13 per cent of the Senators are 70 or past.

In private life, the age of 65 has by common consent come to be considered as the age of retirement. Actually most men and women at that age are still capable of an active life and more and more they postpone retirement to remain at the head of businesses or active in trades and professions. If the situation in the Senate is any guide, this trend will grow.

Among the Senators the Democrats seem to have the edge on longevity. Green is a Democrat and others of his party over 70 include Neely of West Virginia, 82; Murray of Montana, 80; Hayden of Arizona, 79; George of Georgia, 78, and Latham of New York, 78.

Republicans in the upper age bracket include Martin of Pennsylvania, 77; Smith of New Jersey, 76; Flanders of Vermont, 76, and Duff of Pennsylvania, 73.

If as the Romans believed, judgment and wisdom ripen with age we should have an exceptionally wise Senate these days.

At 34, He's Short of Time

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—"I get angry just looking at a row of books, knowing there won't be time to read them all," said Steve Allen.

"The biggest trouble with life is that it doesn't last long enough for you to do all the things you want to."

Steve, who quit college after six months to take a $40-a-week job as a radio announcer, at 34 has become a top figure in television, lives on Park Ave. and is married to a beautiful actress named Jayne Meadows.

Many an entertainer might feel content at this point to rest a bit on his oars and think he had it made. Not Allen, a man of many talents. He wants to explore new fields. Being a successful actor, composer, pianist, master of ceremonies and comedian aren't enough to keep him busy.

"I have a feeling that most of the jobs in the entertainment world really are only parttime," he said, thoughtfully. "Song writing, for example, is a part-time job, even if you're an Irving Berlin. It takes only a half hour to write a song. It's a real snap as a profession."

Steve has written some 200 songs himself, including the lyrics for the current hit tune, "Picnic."

In the midst of these side chores he is still emceeing three "tonight" shows a week and seeking to overthrow Ed Sullivan's virtual 8-year monopoly on Sunday evenings.

How can he keep so many irons in the fire without falling apart?

"I was born with a relaxed nervous system," Steve said, smiling. "I don't worry. And I get 9 hours sleep a night. Sleep is basically important to me."

"But, oddly, the thing that has done the most for me is the ability to sit in front of a camera and still feel and act like a human being."

"For some reason, very few can. Dave Garraway, Arthur Godfrey, Jack Paar, Garry Moore can, but it's hard to name more than half a dozen."

The NBC-CBS struggle for peak ratings on Sunday night doesn't seem to perturb Steve unduly.

"The two people who have the sanest attitudes toward it are Ed Sullivan and myself," he said. "We are friends. Both he and I have the viewpoint that there is plenty of room on the air for good entertainment. The industry right now is too rating-happy. I don't care too much about my rating so long as it's recognized that I have a good show."

Stick to the Needle-Sticker

By George Sokolsky

A Chinese friend of mine, who had been educated at Columbia University in the 1880's and had achieved a high estate in his own country, discovered that the favorite child of his old age was down with the measles. He thereupon sent for all the doctors he could think of, those who practiced ancient Chinese herbal medicine, those who had been educated in Germany or the United States.

Each one examined the child and wrote a prescription. As my friend was both famous and wealthy, none dared to refuse his request; so they all wrote prescriptions. When he saw the lot of them, my friend feared that if he gave all these conflicting medicines to his child, she would die not of the disease but of the medicines.

Thereupon, he sent for a necromancer who would by magic discover which medicine would be most beneficial. And when the child got well from the measles, as most children do, it was the necromancer who got the credit.

I was minded of this incident when I received a circular from a publisher—let him be nameless—advertising a book by a handwriting expert—also to be unadvertised here—quoting a columnist and advising the world that the degree of the President's illness is to be measured by gazing at his signature.

Apparently it is no longer necessary to stick needles into arteries or veins or wherever they stick them to get a vial of blood for a technician to discover what ails one; it is no longer necessary to take a cardiogram to discover the workings of the heart, or to use X-ray to look at one's insides. Just send your signature to a signature reader and the whole truth will unveil itself. It does not say in the circular whether this is done to slow music and low lights.

Being punctured weekly to determine my dosage of dicumarol, I have resentment against needle-sticking. Say what you will, it hurts. Why not send this page of copy, written in long-hand, to the handwriting bloke, who will then say to me for a fee, "Boy, you're doing fine. Hereafter don't let anyone stick you, not even Mrs. Arthur Miller, the former Marilyn Monroe."

Franklin D. Roosevelt was sick during his entire presidency, no matter how you say it. His illness finally got him down. In 1944, to prove that he was capable of doing it, he rode through New York in an open automobile in a cold rain and then went to the Waldorf-Astoria where he made a speech that came over the air badly. He was a sick man.

But everybody was decent about it, even reactionary Republicans who accused him of every crime in the code, but never talked of him as a sick man. It was regarded as ungentlemanly. My friend, Victor Ridder, who has had all of Mr. Roosevelt's ailments and many more, used to jest with me about his being crippled but claimed that he could do more work and did than many men who had not had polio, tuberculosis and cancer. Victor, who was 70 last April, is now in a London hospital after having been banged up in an automobile accident.

There is no telling whether sicknesses destroy the capacity of men to do their work. Ridder, who has been a sick man all his life, has helped to build a large and lucrative newspaper and radio chain and has engaged in many public services.

It seems to me that it is more a question of the spirit, the will, the faith of the individual than the ailments of the body. Frank Scully, whose greatest contribution to civilization is his book "Fun in Bed," for sick people, had, according to my last count, 22 operations in the course of which he lost a leg. Despite that he has a newspaper career, he has written and had published many books, has raised and educated a brood of children, travels a great deal, and fights with his friends, including myself, about politics, he being a gregarious, outraged liberal and regarding the rest of word as reactionary.

Nevertheless, he remains high-spirited and aggressive. In other words, to hell with a leg;

there is more to live for.

But to get back to the handwriting expert—I fear, I prefer the needle-sticker.

Child with Asthma Needs Correct Diet

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN
Bronchial asthma respects neither sex nor age. It strikes both men and women with equal vigor and attacks children as well as adults.

In fact, about one-third of the cases begin in children under the age of ten. Furthermore, the incidence of childhood asthma promises to rise substantially during the next decade because of the continued high birth rate.

Special Problem

It's easy to see that besides being a general medical problem, bronchial asthma is a special problem of children. Fortunately, there's a lot you can do to aid any young asthmatic in your home.

During an acute attack, the youngster should, of course, be placed in bed and propped up on pillows. Sheeting or other dust-proof material should be used to enclose the pillow, mattress, and box spring.

Use no rugs in the child's bedroom except smooth cotton ones which can be washed easily. I suggest that instead of using wax on the floor you wipe it with a mixture of furniture polish and mineral oil.

Hot Air Outlets

If you've got an air conditioning unit in the room, that's fine. Any hot air outlets from the furnace should be covered with filters—you can easily make one using layers of gauze.

Temperature of the room should be kept around 70 degrees.

A vaporizer or steam kettle probably should be kept in the room to add moisture to the air.

The diet during an acute attack should be light and easily digested. Overfilling of the stomach, you see, hampers breathing, especially during the night.

Cold Foods Harmful

Liquids and semi-solids should make up most of the diet. Don't give the child any cold foods or any foods that have ever caused him any sensitivity.

Perhaps you had better eliminate milk from the diet because it usually aggravates any tendency toward nausea and vomiting. However, you can give him fruit juices, tea and soft drinks served at room temperature.

Your doctor, of course, will prescribe drugs and give advice to relieve the youthful sufferer.

The Age 65 Need Not Mean Retirement

Right around here and in practically every locality today, there is noted an increasing attitude of acceptance of the fact that probably most people of the age of 65 or more who are leading an active life, are as valuable to the working world, possibly more so, than they were a score of years before.

The experience of such people, if they remain alert, is of great value.

Our attention was called to this by one of Ohio's metropolitan papers recently, when it mentioned that "the dictionary defines the word Senate as 'an assembly of old men, or elders.'" The other day Sen. Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island became the oldest member of the United States Senate in its history.

"When Sen. Justin S. Morgan of Vermont died in office in 1898 he was 88 years, eight months and 15 days old. Sen. Green passed that mark last Sunday, becoming the oldest man ever to sit in the upper house of Congress."

Checking into this matter further it was interesting to find that in the first American Congress no Senator was over 65 years of age. In the present Congress 13 per cent of the Senators are 70 or past.

In private life, the age of 65 has by common consent come to be considered as the age of retirement. Actually most men and women at that age are still capable of an active life and more and more they postpone retirement to remain at the head of businesses or active in trades and professions. If the situation in the Senate is any guide, this trend will grow.

Among the Senators the Democrats seem to have the edge on longevity. Green is a Democrat and others of his party over 70 include Neely of West Virginia, 82; Murray of Montana, 80; Hayden of Arizona, 79; George of Georgia, 78, and Latham of New York, 78.

Republicans in the upper age bracket include Martin of Pennsylvania, 77; Smith of New Jersey, 76; Flanders of Vermont, 76, and Duff of Pennsylvania, 73.

If as the Romans believed, judgment and wisdom ripen with age we should have an exceptionally wise Senate these days.

At 34, He's Short of Time

NEW YORK (AP)—"I get angry just looking at a row of books, knowing there won't be time to read them all," said Steve Allen. "The biggest trouble with life is that it doesn't last long enough for you to do all the things you want to."

Steve, who quit college after six months to take a $40-a-week job as a radio announcer, at 34 has become a top figure in television, lives on Park Ave. and is married to a beautiful actress named Jayne Meadows.

Many an entertainer might feel content at this point to rest a bit on his oars and think he had it made. Not Allen, a man of many talents. He wants to explore new fields. Being a successful actor, composer, pianist, master of ceremonies and comedian aren't enough to keep him busy.

"I have a feeling that most of the jobs in the entertainment world really are only parttime," he said, thoughtfully. "Song writing, for example, is a part-time job, even if you're an Irving Berlin. It takes only a half hour to write a song. It's a real snap as a profession."

Steve has written some 200 songs himself, including the lyrics for the current hit tune, "Picnic."

In the midst of these side chores he is still emceeing three "tonight" shows a week and seeking to overthrow Ed Sullivan's virtual 8-year monopoly on Sunday evenings.

How can he keep so many irons in the fire without falling apart?

"I was born with a relaxed nervous system," Steve said, smiling. "I don't worry. And I get 9 hours sleep a night. Sleep is basically important to me."

GAMAL Abdel Nasser, Prime Minister of Egypt, who was elected the first president of the republic, waves to admirers who gathered outside his office in Cairo singing and cheering. Nasser received more than 99 percent of the votes cast in the national election. He was the only candidate. (International)

KENNETH E. SCHUBERT, 16, of Roxanna, Ill., stands before the wheel of the Ezeanthe with Capt. Guy Hudgins, master of the American Export Lines cargo ship, before leaving Hoboken, N. Be Cautious In July: It's a Perilous Month

A warning to Fayette County people has come from local police and health departments to remember that July, traditionally the heavy vacation month, also has another far less pleasant distinction, it is often the month recording the most accidental deaths of every type.

According to official observers it runs second only to December in casualties. State safety officials join in urging precautions at this time.

According to J. W. Dykes, president of the Ohio State Safety Council, the month of July requires caution from all the people who live here, or are visitors within the state.

The head of the State Safety Council declares:

"Six classes of accidents produced 60 percent of the deaths last July. The persons who escape these types of mishaps: falls in or around home, drowning, collision between motor vehicle with a fixed object, and falls outdoors in places of public access, have an excellent chance of living through the month.

"Home falls pretty generally are most dangerous for persons over the age of 65. Warm weather seems to impel them to try to do jobs that require them to climb. Some of the victims, in younger age groups, the 'do-it-yourselfers,' undertake tasks requiring almost professional skill and equipment."

Dykes suggests that these ambitious people of any age, follow the line of the old sailing ship seamen— "One hand for the job—one hand for me." Stable working position, good footing, moderate reach, reasonable exertion are needed by the novice, even more than by the expert, to avoid a tumble.

MANY of the drowning cases stem from a lack of the precautions just mentioned. About a fourth of our water casualties would be classed as falls—the first event in the series being a fall, into water rather than on land.

Waders—adults and youngsters—are most likely to get into this type of accident. But stable footing and balance are needed by each person who is in, on, or near the water.

Swimming should be confined to areas which are served by life-guards. Two good swimmers in each party—one remaining ashore as a lookout while the second is in the water—will provide reasonable safety in areas where no professional guard is on duty.

Boaters should be sure that life saving aids: buoyant vests or cushions are at hand—one for each person aboard. Wearing a life vest assures that you'll have it in an emergency. Fasten it so you and it may not be separated if you are dunked in the water.

"Of course," Dykes said, "the most hazardous activity during July is motoring. It produced nearly half of all the casualties, yet no one class of collision ranks higher than third as a death maker. Collision between motor vehicles kills about one of ten who die during the month—by accident."

VEHICLES approaching at a sharp angle sideswipes, head on collisions, rear end collisions seem to take turns as the leaders in the group. Drivers should recognize that vehicles on the right have the right of way at locations which are not controlled by traffic signal, stop sign, or a yield sign. Be sure that the way is clear before entering an intersection at an angle.

Stay on your own side of the road. Pass only when you see adequate space to get around the slower vehicle and get back on your own side. But—don't cut in too soon or you'll clip the car you are passing.

Some experts claim that on the busiest highway—if traffic is moving at all—you can make any legal maneuver, if you will just wait one minute. So don't risk the lives in your car to save a minute.

Rear-end collisions usually come from following other vehicles too closely. Keep clear space in front of your car—enough that you can see the rear wheels of the car ahead when in town. See the front wheels when you are on the open road. One car length of space for each ten miles of speed—add one for yourself—six car lengths for Ohio's legal country speed of 50—will be about right.

OVER HALF of the pedestrian injuries occur in urban areas—but deaths are frequent in rural districts, because too many persons continue to walk along roads with their backs to approaching traffic. Motorists must expect pedestrians in the vicinity of parks, playgrounds and recreation areas.

Do not pass a pedestrian and another vehicle in the same spot. Slow down until you can pass by the walker with plenty of room. Sound your horn, to let him know that you are nearing him.

Many collisions with fixed objects occur because the driver chooses to strike an object rather than a car or person. Such choices would become less numerous if motorists kept speed moderate and looked ahead sufficiently to see the emergency developing.

One motorist overturned his convertible when he veered sharply and slammed on his brakes when an elderly pedestrian stepped into the path of the car. Similar situations appear often in a day's journey. Be certain what others will do! Do not assume that they will do the proper thing. They may not be thinking of traffic at all.

ALTHOUGH GRADE crossing collisions have not been prominent hazards in July, the recent record in Ohio moved Dykes to remind motorists that it is illegal to drive onto a track whenever a signal indicates the approach of a train. It is illegal to drive around a lowered crossing gate.

The responsibility for avoiding a collision with a train is placed squarely on the motorist. Advance warning signs appear at least 300 feet before crossings on the state highway system. Crossbucks at the crossing mark practically all of the other intersections of road and rail. Special warnings are at heavily travelled locations.

"All of these mean nothing," said Dykes, "unless the driver pays attention to them, and is ready to stop before he reaches the nearest track. He must see, know, not assume, that no train is coming before he risks lives and property by driving onto the track."

For a safe vacation, Dykes offers this prescription: "Take it easy: Driving, Walking or Playing."

OSU Trustees Approve Idea Of Underground Park Area

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University trustees have approved construction of an underground parking garage at the rear of the school's new Merston Auditorium on the campus, and a $238,000 baseball stadium.

At the same time the board approved a retirement salary of $12,332 annually for President Howard L. Bevis who leaves the university Aug. 1. It also approved a salary of $30,000 for the newly selected president, Novice G. Fawcett.

Dr. Bevis had received $29,928, plus allowances. Fawcett also will receive the usual allowances which include a residence, automobile, servants and $3,000 for entertainment.

The garage is planned for the north side of the new auditorium and is aimed at relieving a badly congested traffic situation. The auditorium, to be completed during the coming school year at a cost of $2,470,000, is being financed from the seven million dollar bequest to the university two years ago by the late Col. Ralph D. Merston.

The garage would provide for 420 automobiles, of which 200 will be underground. Cost figures are not complete, pending a revenue study. Bids will not be taken until the September meeting of the board.

Jacob B. Taylor, vice president and business manager of the university, disclosed the plans for the baseball stadium to be situated south and west of Ohio Stadium and adjacent to the Olentangy River. Plans provide for a seating capacity of 2,100 and completion by the 1957 baseball season. It will be constructed of concrete block with steel supports for the roof.

The trustees also were advised by university officials that OSU may expect an enrollment next

Memories

By JACOB MILLER

There are always two sides to every case, and is it any wonder that when the Indians discovered how the white man had cheated him out of his furs and usurped his hunting grounds, his only recourse was to try to destroy the white man?

In the early spring of 1788, Col. Williamson, with a company of soldiers, enticed the Christian Indians of Gnadenhutten, Tuscarawas County, into their Moravian Church, for a meeting pertaining to their welfare. The doors were nailed shut and the poor Indians, about 90 souls, were destroyed in the church, by burning the building.

When the news of this outrage, reached the ears of the public, many angry petitions, were sent to Congress. Very little effect it had, but finally, on Aug. 4, 1823, an agreement or treaty was entered into at Gnadenhutten, with the Christian Indians and the government.

On June 5, 1872, a monument was erected on the site of the massacre, and the oration was delivered by a Moravian bishop. At its close, a funeral dirge was chanted, and an Indian, at each of the four corners, as the last notes of the requiem died away, detached the drapery which fell to the ground, and the monument stood revealed to the gaze of the assembled multitude. One of them, John Jacobs, was the grandson of Jacob Schenck, the first victim of the massacre, 90 years before.

A few years ago, in my travels, I was at Gnadenhutten, and all the cabins and church had been restored to their original form and site. As I looked upon this deserted village, I marveled at the savagery of Col. Williamson and his soldiers.

Is it any wonder that the Indians burned their white captives to the stake? Remember, the Indian was a heathen, and the white man had the influence of Christianity and a knew better.

Be Cautious In July: It's a Perilous Month

A warning to Fayette County people has come from local police and health departments to remember that July, traditionally the heavy vacation month, also has another far less pleasant distinction, it is often the month recording the most accidental deaths of every type.

According to official observers it runs second only to December in casualties. State safety officials join in urging precautions at this time.

According to J. W. Dykes, president of the Ohio State Safety Council, the month of July requires caution from all the people who live here, or are visitors within the state.

The head of the State Safety Council declares:

"Six classes of accidents produced 60 percent of the deaths last July. The persons who escape these types of mishaps: falls in or around home, drowning, collision between motor vehicle with a fixed object, and falls outdoors in places of public access, have an excellent chance of living through the month.

"Home falls pretty generally are most dangerous for persons over the age of 65. Warm weather seems to impel them to try to do jobs that require them to climb. Some of the victims, in younger age groups, the 'do-it-yourselfers,' undertake tasks requiring almost professional skill and equipment." Dykes suggests that these ambitious people of any age, follow the line of the old sailing ship seamen— "One hand for the job—one hand for me." Stable working position, good footing, moderate reach, reasonable exertion are needed by the novice, even more than by the expert, to avoid a tumble.

MANY of the drowning cases stem from a lack of the precautions just mentioned. About a fourth of our water casualties would be classed as falls—the first event in the series being a fall, into water rather than on land.

Waders—adults and youngsters—are most likely to get into this type of accident. But stable footing and balance are needed by each person who is in, on, or near the water.

Swimming should be confined to areas which are served by life-guards. Two good swimmers in each party—one remaining ashore as a lookout while the second is in the water—will provide reasonable safety in areas where no professional guard is on duty.

Boaters should be sure that life saving aids: buoyant vests or cushions are at hand—one for each person aboard. Wearing a life vest assures that you'll have it in an emergency. Fasten it so you and it may not be separated if you are dunked in the water.

Gradale Sorority Holds Annual Dinner Meeting

The annual dinner meeting of Gradale Sorority which is always highlighted with a dinner was held at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church Monday evening.

This, the final meeting before a summer recess also featured installation of new officers and the induction of pledges.

The invocation given by Mrs. John Noble, preceded the serving of the delicious meal in Parish Hall at long tables, effectively decorated with market baskets filled with summer flowers in pastel colors and miniature baskets of sweet peas and button mums, softly lighted with white tapers.

Following a delightful dinner hour, a candlelight service was conducted by Mrs. James Perrill, retiring primus, and assisting officers, Mrs. Emerson Marting, Mrs. Phil Douglass, Mrs. Robert Creamer and Mrs. Howard Perrill, mentor.

Mrs. Perrill explained the aims and purposes of the Sorority and those inducted were Mrs. Fred Braddeck, Jr., Mrs. John R. Craig, Mrs. Maynard Wilson and Mrs. Everett White.

The officers-elect also assisted in the impressive service giving the obligations of their offices.

Mrs. James Perrill conducted the installation of new officers, also by candlelight. She was assisted by Mrs. Howard Perrill, and those assuming the obligations of their respective offices were: Mrs. Emerson Marting, primus; Mrs. Paul Pope, pro-primus; Mrs. John Sagar, Jr., tribune; Mrs. Wilbur Rapp, quæstor; Mrs. Richard Arnot and Mrs. Carl Garrett, corresponding tribunes and Mrs. Horace Jacobs, state corresponding tribune.

At the close of the installation the Gradale-Song "Follow The Gleam," was sung by the group and Mrs. Perrill, the retiring primus, expressed her appreciation to the members for their splendid co-operation during her term in office, and she was presented with a lovely gift by Mrs. Emerson Marting in behalf of the sorority.

Mrs. Frank S. Jackson, advisor, for the sorority, was included as a special guest. The committee for the evening was made up of Mrs. John Noble, chairman, and her assistants Mrs. Joe Bryan, Mrs. Ned Abbott and Mrs. Frank Pope.

Pedestrian's Phobia Is Beekeeper's Bonanza

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—An estimated 8,000 to 10,000 bees swarmed atop a downtown traffic light and sent pedestrians scurrying.

Charles McGhee, a lens grinder for an optical company, cleared up the jam when he got a box and ladder from a nearby store and after about half an hour coaxed the queen and her followers into the makeshift hive.

McGhee, an amateur beekeeper, later transferred the swarm to a hive at his home.

Bowers Hosts At Lovely Evening Event

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bower entertained members of the Lioness Club and their husbands at a delightful evening party on Saturday at the El-Ray Corral, on Lake Cowan, near Wilmington.

The evening's events included as usual, both round and old fashioned square dancing under the instruction of Mr. Clarence McDermott of Wilmington, which is looked forward to each year as a most pleasant social event.

Late in the evening the group sang "Happy Birthday," to Dr. Charles Pfersick and Mrs. Frank Weade who were celebrating their anniversaries.

A buffet supper was served at midnight featuring charcoal broiled wieners and the accompanying delicacies to bring to an end a most pleasurable evening.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Bowers in the hospitalities were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lytton, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Marting and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sollars.

Gradale Sorority Holds Annual Dinner Meeting

The annual dinner meeting of Gradale Sorority which is always highlighted with a dinner was held at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church Monday evening.

This, the final meeting before a summer recess also featured installation of new officers and the induction of pledges.

The invocation given by Mrs. John Noble, preceded the serving of the delicious meal in Parish Hall at long tables, effectively decorated with market baskets filled with summer flowers in pastel colors and miniature baskets of sweet peas and button mums, softly lighted with white tapers.

Following a delightful dinner hour, a candlelight service was conducted by Mrs. James Perrill, retiring primus, and assisting officers, Mrs. Emerson Marting, Mrs. Phil Douglass, Mrs. Robert Creamer and Mrs. Howard Perrill, mentor.

Mrs. Perrill explained the aims and purposes of the Sorority and those inducted were Mrs. Fred Braddeck, Jr., Mrs. John R. Craig, Mrs. Maynard Wilson and Mrs. Everett White.

The officers-elect also assisted in the impressive service giving the obligations of their offices.

Mrs. James Perrill conducted the installation of new officers, also by candlelight. She was assisted by Mrs. Howard Perrill, and those assuming the obligations of their respective offices were: Mrs. Emerson Marting, primus; Mrs. Paul Pope, pro-primus; Mrs. John Sagar, Jr., tribune; Mrs. Wilbur Rapp, quaestor; Mrs. Richard Arnot and Mrs. Carl Garrett, corresponding tribunes and Mrs. Horace Jacobs, state corresponding tribune.

At the close of the installation the Gradale-Song "Follow The Gleam," was sung by the group and Mrs. Perrill, the retiring primus, expressed her appreciation to the members for their splendid co-operation during her term in office, and she was presented with a lovely gift by Mrs. Emerson Marting in behalf of the sorority.

Mrs. Frank S. Jackson, advisor, for the sorority, was included as a special guest.

The committee for the evening was made up of Mrs. John Noble, chairman, and her assistants Mrs. Joe Bryan, Mrs. Ned Abbott and Mrs. Frank Pope.

Pedestrian's Phobia Is Beekeeper's Bonanza

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—An estimated 8,000 to 10,000 bees swarmed about a downtown traffic light and sent pedestrians scurrying.

Charles McGhee, a lens grinder for an optical company, cleared up the jam when he got a box and ladder from a nearby store and after about half an hour coaxed the queen and her followers into the makeshift hive.

McGhee, an amateur beekeeper, later transferred the swarm to a hive at his home.

SPIRAL-TIERED BLACK CHANTILLY LACE evening dress designed by Jo Copeland. The shoulders are all but covered with a separate lace-edged scarf of pink chiffon. Lovely for all-year wear.

Bowers Hosts At Lovely Evening Event

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bower entertained members of the Lioness Club and their husbands at a delightful evening party on Saturday at the El-Ray Corral, on Lake Cowan, near Wilmington.

The evening's events included as usual, both round and old fashioned square dancing under the instruction of Mr. Clarence McDermott of Wilmington, which is looked forward to each year as a most pleasant social event.

Late in the evening the group sang "Happy Birthday," to Dr. Charles Piersick and Mrs. Frank Weade who were celebrating their anniversaries.

A buffet supper was served at midnight featuring charcoal broiled wieners and the accompanying delicacies to bring to an end a most pleasurable evening.

No Wish to Breed Ire Over Golfer's Attire

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Not wishing to arouse the ire of golfers nor dictate fashion to them, Dayton City Welfare Director Alfred P. Strozdas turned to poetry instead.

Now, at the first tees of three city-owned courses, signs read:

"We don't mean to preach,
"This isn't the beach.
"Will you kindly wear golfing attire?
"Shorts to your knees and full tops please,
"It's the costume we most admire."

Fish and Game Meeting Slated

Plans for Lodge To Be Worked Out

Final plans for putting up the log lodge on its recreation area on Rattlesnake Creek near Buena Vista are to be worked out at Thursday night's meeting of the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn.

The meeting is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock in the Fayette Grange Hall on Elm St., the regular meeting place now.

Although some other questions undoubtedly will be brought up for discussion, one of the moving spirits said, the plans for building the lodge are considered to have top priority.

The spokesman for the association said most, if not all, of the logs to be used in the lodge construction were either on the ground now, or soon would be.

The sassafras and poplar trees were cut by members of the association early last spring, but because of late snow, combined with rain and the spring thaw, they could not be gotten out of the woods atop Turkey Ridge, near South Salem in Ross County, until summer.

IT WAS POINTED out that, since association members are doing most of the work, "we'll need a lot of help" from them when actual construction starts.

The concrete floor, 30 by 50 feet, will be laid and ready for work on the building to start by the end of the week if no unforeseen complications arise, it was said.

The picnic area already has been cleared of brush and the grass has been mowed. Members of the association have been using it, but still more are expected to start coming in for family gatherings as time and development continues.

The rains and high waters have put a crimp in the use of the picnic area, it was pointed out, because Rattlesnake Creek has been flowing too swiftly and the water too muddy for fishing.

A motion picture showing wildlife in the Florida Everglades is to be shown at the conclusion of the meeting.

Presbyterian Church Parsonage Kitchen Now Being Remodeled

REFURBISHING THE PARSONAGE at the First Presbyterian Church here began Monday afternoon, so that the home will be spick and span for the incoming minister, L. M. Hayes (above) one of the volunteer laborers at work on the project, starts the project by clawing off a door jamb. (Record-Herald photo)

Complete remodeling of the kitchen in the First Presbyterian Church parsonage here will be finished "in time for our new minister this September," L. M.

Hayes, one of the leaders of the remodeling work said Tuesday morning. Remodeling got started Monday evening, with volunteers doing the first parts of the all-volunteer job. Total cost of the work was set by Hayes at "around $1,000."

"For sometime, we've been in the rather awkward position of having a splendid parsonage with an inadequate kitchen," Hayes said.

The church's new minister, the Rev. Warren Neil Hand of Millersburg, is not due to occupy the parsonage until early in September. Work is being undertaken now

School Funds May Be Cut If Segregation Is Practiced

COLUMBUS (U.S.A.)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill ruled today that the Ohio State Board of Education has authority to withhold state funds from any school district or board of education which permits segregation.

The term "law" as used in the revised Ohio Code, forbidding distribution of state funds to school districts which have not "conformed with the law," said O'Neill, embraces the aggregate of all those rules and principles enforced and sanctioned by the governing power of the community.

He said such term embraces the equal protection provision in the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution under which the segregation of pupils according to race is forbidden.

The attorney general held further that it is the responsibility of the state board of education in the first instance to determine whether a particular school district, or board of education in such district, "has not conformed with the law" so as to require the withholding of state funds from the district.

He said that in making such determination, the state board should observe the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act as to notice, hearing, summoning of witnesses, presentation of evidence, degree of proof and procedural matters.

The state board, now in session here, had stated previously that it would "take action in accordance with law" against districts where the courts rule unlawful segregation exists.

At that time the board disapproved a motion by Cleveland member Charles P. Lucas to establish a committee to investigate "allegations of segregation."

Member Loren E. Souers Jr. of Canton at the board's March 13 meeting noted that there is only in order to complete it while the house is vacant.

A dishwasher, a garbage disposal unit and a large amount of cabinet space will be installed in the kitchen as a part of the program, Hays noted.

Two small windows on the kitchen wall will be replaced with one larger window and a clothes closet will be put in, he added.

Ormand Dewey is taking charge of the program, Hayes said. Others working are Herbert Wilson and Roy Plymale.

one case involving segregation in the state now before the courts. He was referring to the Hillsboro case. And Member Charlton Myers of Marion said, "It appears to me that this is a local matter rather than a state matter."

Myers once was a resident of Hillsboro, having served there as Highland County probate judge.

The question of segregation in Hillsboro ended last April when the school board gave in to a U. S. Court of Appeals order that it admit immediately all eligible Negro children to the Webster-Washington Elementary School.

The school board had denied charges that it had practiced segregation, contending that it kept some, but not all, Negro children from the Webster-Washington School because of overcrowded conditions.

It argued through the courts that no Negro child would be denied admission to any school next fall, when a building program is scheduled to be completed.

In April the school board capitulated and tests were given under supervision of representatives of the state department of education. Eighteen children were assigned to various classes.

Parents of 11 of the children refused to accept the assignments at first because the children were ordered back to the same grades they were in when they quit school in 1954 after being assigned to an all-Negro school. They gave in on April 17, however, and the school year ended without further discord.

Fish and Game Meeting Slated

Plans for Lodge To Be Worked Out

Final plans for putting up the lodge on its recreation area on Rattlesnake Creek near Buena Vista are to be worked out at Thursday night's meeting of the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn.

The meeting is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock in the Fayette Grange Hall on Elm St., the regular meeting place now.

Although some other questions undoubtedly will be brought up for discussion, one of the moving spirits said, the plans for building the lodge are considered to have top priority.

The spokesman for the association said most, if not all, of the logs to be used in the lodge construction were either on the ground now, or soon would be.

The sassafras and poplar trees were cut by members of the association early last spring, but because of late snow, combined with rain and the spring thaw, they could not be gotten out of the woods atop Turkey Ridge, near South Salem in Ross County, until summer.

IT WAS POINTED out that, since association members are doing most of the work, "we'll need a lot of help" from them when actual construction starts.

The concrete floor, 30 by 50 feet, will be laid and ready for work on the building to start by the end of the week if no unforeseen complications arise, it was said.

The picnic area already has been cleared of brush and the grass has been mowed. Members of the association have been using it, but still more are expected to start coming in for family gatherings as time and development continues.

The rains and high waters have put a crimp in the use of the picnic area, it was pointed out, because Rattlesnake Creek has been flowing too swiftly and the water too muddy for fishing.

A motion picture showing wildlife in the Florida Everglades is to be shown at the conclusion of the meeting.

Presbyterian Church Parsonage Kitchen Now Being Remodeled

REFURBISHING THE PARSONAGE at the First Presbyterian Church here began Monday afternoon, so that the home will be spick and span for the incoming minister, L. M. Hayes (above) one of the volunteer laborers at work on the project, starts the project by clawing off a door jamb. (Record-Herald photo)

Complete remodeling of the kitchen in the First Presbyterian Church parsonage here will be finished "in time for our new minister this September," L. M.

Hayes, one of the leaders of the remodeling work said Tuesday morning. Remodeling got started Monday evening, with volunteers doing the first parts of the all-volunteer job. Total cost of the work was set by Hayes at "around $1,000."

"For sometime, we've been in the rather awkward position of having a splendid parsonage with an inadequate kitchen," Hayes said.

The church's new minister, the Rev. Warren Neil Hand of Millersburg, is not due to occupy the parsonage until early in September. Work is being undertaken now in order to complete it while the house is vacant. A dishwasher, a garbage disposal unit and a large amount of cabinet space will be installed in the kitchen as a part of the program, Hays noted. Two small windows on the kitchen wall will be replaced with one larger window and a clothes closet will be put in, he added. Ormand Dewey is taking charge of the program, Hayes said. Others working are Herbert Wilson and Roy Plymale.

School Funds May Be Cut If Segregation Is Practiced

COLUMBUS (U—Atty Gen C. William O'Neill ruled today that the Ohio State Board of Education has authority to withhold state funds from any school district or board of education which permits segregation.

The term "law" as used in the revised Ohio Code, forbidding distribution of state funds to school districts which have not "conformed with the law," said O'Neill, embraces the aggregate of all those rules and principles enforced and sanctioned by the governing power of the community.

He said such term embraces the equal protection provision in the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution under which the segregation of pupils according to race is forbidden.

The attorney general held further that it is the responsibility of the state board of education in the first instance to determine whether a particular school district, or board of education in such district, "has not conformed with the law" so as to require the withholding of state funds from the district.

He said that in making such determination, the state board should observe the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act as to notice, hearing, summoning of witnesses, presentation of evidence, degree of proof and procedural matters.

The state board, now in session here, had stated previously that it would "take action in accordance with law" against districts where the courts rule unlawful segregation exists.

At that time the board disapproved a motion by Cleveland member Charles P. Lucas to establish a committee to investigate "allegations of segregation."

Member Loren E. Souers Jr. of Canton at the board's March 13 meeting noted that there is only one case involving segregation in the state now before the courts. He was referring to the Hillsboro case. And Member Charlton Myers of Marion said, "It appears to me that this is a local matter rather than a state matter."

Myers once was a resident of Hillsboro, having served there as Highland County probate judge.

The question of segregation in Hillsboro ended last April when the school board gave in to a U.S. Court of Appeals order that it admit immediately all eligible Negro children to the Webster-Washington Elementary School.

It argued through the courts that no Negro child would be denied admission to any school next fall, when a building program is scheduled to be completed.

In April the school board capitulated and tests were given under supervision of representatives of the state department of education.

tion. Eighteen children were assigned to various classes.

Parents of 11 of the children refused to accept the assignments at first because the children were ordered back to the same grades they were in when they quit school in 1954 after being assigned to an all-Negro school. They gave in on April 17, however, and the school year ended without further discord.

Commercial Jet Plane Makers See Big Future

2 Years Yet Before
First Delivered, but
Dubled Sales Talked

By SAM DAWSON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Commercial jet plane makers — straining hard to come in first in one of the keenest races the aviation industry has yet known — are talking today about doubling their market in the next five years. And it's still two years before they start deliveries on the 242 now on order.

These orders are unique in themselves. Some were written on the basis of blueprints alone and the reputation of the maker, others from a prototype that has been flown but is now being improved. The latter is expected to be surpassed in several ways by the first commercial one yet to be assembled.

Jet enthusiasts count on public acceptance of speedier transportation to force airlines to find the money somewhere to double their orders.

Plane makers contend the jets will change the folkways of American businessmen by making a round-trip transcontinental business day feasible. They say this will add new customers to the airways rather than merely draw them away from present planes.

Designers are confident that by the time commercial service starts the hoise problem and the need for extra long runways—both now barring jets from some city airports — will have been licked.

While Boeing, Douglas and Convair race to get their jets into commercial service, Britain has put its new Comet II in the air. This is England's first jet operation since the Comet I was grounded after a series of crashes in 1954. And Russia has been showing a jet liner for several months.

"Customers won't ride in anything, but a jet once they've tried it, predicts William M. Allen, Boeing president, at Seattle. "Jets will take over as fast as they can be produced and airlines can afford them."

Boeing is selling two lines of jets. The smaller is the size of the original prototype which it flew across the United States in 4½ hours. It is for delivery in December 1958 and Allen says, "It will be on time."

The larger jet is aimed at overseas traffic, for delivery in August 1959. Announced orders from eight domestic and foreign carriers for the two lines total 88.

Donald W. Douglas, president of the Douglas Aircraft Co., says 11 airlines have ordered 114 of his jets on the strength of blueprints.

Convair division of General Dynamics has orders for 40 medium range jets from two airlines.

In competition with the smaller jets will be Lockheed's Electra turboprops, a 400-mile-an-hour medium range plane to be delivered in 1958. Add the 129 orders for the turboprops to the 242 for jets, and airlines have contracted for 371 new and expensive planes in the next few years.

South Carolina Prediction Close

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—The South Carolina Tax Commission and State Auditor J. M. Smith missed guessing the state's 1955-56 tax take by $4,000. That figures out an error of 0.0003 per cent.

The prediction—made in December 1954 for revenue that would not all be collected until June 30 of this year—was $119,946,000. The take was $119,950,000.

New Phase of Union Twp. Zoning Started

A new phase in zoning Union Township for residential and commercial, or industrial, construction is now getting under way under the guidance of the Zoning Board of Appeals, Osman King, the secretary said.

Under the zoning code, he explained, all non-conforming businesses must have "certificates of occupancy". These certificates, he said, are good for two years, but within those two years the owners must apply for re-zoning to take care of the situation.

This is the new phase with which the Zoning Board is now concerned.

King and Carl Wilt, the chairman of the board, both have said that the certificates and the re-zoning to take care of non-conforming businesses are considered as routine and that the board has no disposition to disrupt any business established before the zoning code went into effect last Jan. 1.

The zoning code for Union Township, which surrounds Washington C. H., was approved by the voters last November.

KING SAID letters explaining the procedures have been sent to the 20 owners of non-conforming property and that he plans to get in touch with each of them and issue the "certificates of occupancy" within the next couple of weeks.

Inasmuch as no appropriation has been made for meeting the board's expenses, the $5 fee for the certificate goes into its general fund.

Even as the certificates are being issued, King said he and other members of the board are "urging owners of non-conforming property to apply for re-zoning as soon as possible."

Although the board keeps a complete record of all proceedings, King said copies of all building permits are filed with the county auditor in accordance with the provisions of the code.

He explained that these building permits serve as a check for property tax assessments. He pointed out in this connection that all new building, under the law, must be reported to the auditor as a guide for fixing property valuations for the tax duplicate.

Permits, he said, are required for all new construction, whether they conform to the zoning code or are issued for non-conforming buildings by the board after a hearing.

THE BOARD, only a little more than six months old and still in the formative stages, has not set any regular meeting time—and may not, at least for the time being. Instead, it meets on call of the chairman to take up any special questions.

Most of the routine work is handled by Secretary King, but he said he keeps in close touch with the president and other members of the board.

At its last meeting, Chairman Wilt said the board devoted most of the time to a discussion of general policy and the report by the secretary.

During the policy discussion, he said, the board agreed that it should work closely with the Washington C. H. Zoning Board and the Chamber of Commerce Area Development Committee. He explained that the Union Township board feels that the problems of Washington C. H. and the community surrounding it in Union Township are so interlocked that cooperation among the two boards and the C. of C. committee is essential in the development of the entire area.

IN ACCORDANCE with the zoning code approved by the voters last November, Union Township was laid out in zones, with certain areas designated for residences and others for industrial and commercial enterprises.

In brief, the zoning code restricts industrial and commercial construction to those areas designated for this purpose. However, industrial or commercial construction, which does not conform to the zoning code, may (not must) be authorized by the Zoning Board of Appeals after it holds a hearing in accordance with the law; these are classed as non-conforming properties.

Industrial or commercial enterprises already established in areas designated later for residential development also are classed as non-conforming. It is for these properties that the owners must get 1. a "certificate of occupancy" and 2.

make an application for re-zoning within two years.

Although the zoning code places restrictions on certain types of industrial and commercial enterprises and certain types of construction, the two keys to the code are the residential and industrial or commercial areas.

Settlement Made By Film Comedian

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An out of court settlement has been reached in the $30,000 suit brought against Mexican film comedian Mario Moreno, better known as Cantinflas, by theatrical agent Margaret Cook. The amount she was paid was not disclosed.

Mrs. Cook alleged Cantinflas had refused to pay her 10 per cent of the $300,000 he received for his role in the film "Around the World in 80 days," although she said the contract called for such payment.

Prejudices Slow Hiring of Blind

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There are more jobs for blind persons than there are blind to fill them, but so many employers have mental blocks against hiring the blind that only 20,000 of 90,000 blind employables have jobs.

That picture was given to the American Assn. of Workers for the Blind at its annual convention Monday by President Joseph F. Clunk of Philadelphia.

"In no case is blindness of itself a bar to gainful work, and the big task we face is to overcome prejudices in hiring," Clunk said.

Commercial Jet Plane Makers See Big Future

2 Years Yet Before
First Delivered, but
Doubled Sales Talked

By SAM DAWSON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Commercial jet plane makers — straining hard to come in first in one of the keenest races the aviation industry has yet known — are talking today about doubling their market in the next five years. And it's still two years before they start deliveries on the 242 non order.

These orders are unique in themselves. Some were written on the basis of blueprints alone and the reputation of the maker, others from a prototype that has been flown but is now being improved. The latter is expected to be surpassed in several ways by the first commercial one, yet to be assembled. Jet enthusiasts count on public acceptance of speedier transportation to force airlines to find the money somewhere to double their orders.

Plane makers contend the jets will change the folkways of American businessmen by making a round-trip transcontinental business day feasible. They say this will add new customers to the airways rather than merely draw them away from present planes.

Designers are confident that by the time commercial service starts the hoise problem and the need for extra long runways—both now barring jets from some city airports — will have been licked.

While Boeing, Douglas and Convair race to get their jets into commercial service, Britain has put its new Comet II in the air. This is England's first jet operation since the Comet I was grounded after a series of crashes in 1954. And Russia has been showing a jet liner for several months.

"Customers won't ride in anything, but a jet once they've tried it, predicts William M. Allen, Boeing president, at Seattle. "Jets will take over as fast as they can be produced and airlines can afford them."

Boeing is selling two lines of jets. The smaller is the size of the original prototype which it flew across the United States in 4½ hours. It is for delivery in December 1958 and Allen says, "it will be on time."

The larger jet is aimed at overseas traffic, for delivery in August 1959. Announced orders from eight domestic and foreign carriers for the two lines total 88.

Donald W. Douglas, president of the Douglas Aircraft Co., says 11 airlines have ordered 114 of his jets on the strength of blueprints. Convair division of General Dynamics has orders for 40 medium range jets from two airlines.

In competition with the smaller jets will be Lockheed's Electra turboprops, a 400-mile-an-hour medium range plane to be delivered in 1958. Add the 129 orders for the turboprops to the 242 for jets, and airlines have contracted for 371 new and expensive planes in the next few years.

South Carolina Prediction Close

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—The South Carolina Tax Commission and State Auditor J. M. Smith missed guessing the state's 1955-56 tax take by $4,000. That figures out an error of .00003 per cent.

New Phase of Union Twp. Zoning Started

A new phase in zoning Union Township for residential and commercial, or industrial, construction is now getting under way under the guidance of the Zoning Board of Appeals, Osman King, the secretary.

Under the zoning code, he explained, all non-conforming businesses must have "certificates of occupancy". These certificates, he said, are good for two years, but within those two years the owners must apply for re-zoning to take care of the situation.

This is the new phase with which the Zoning Board is now concerned.

King and Carl Wilt, the chairman of the board, both have said that the certificates and the re-zoning to take care of non-conforming businesses are considered as routine and that the board has no disposition to disrupt any business established before the zoning code went into effect last Jan. 1.

The zoning code for Union Township, which surrounds Washington C. H., was approved by the voters last November.

KING SAID letters explaining the procedures have been sent to the 20 owners of non-conforming property and that he plans to get in touch with each of them and issue the "certificates of occupancy" within the next couple of weeks.

Inasmuch as no appropriation has been made for meeting the board's expenses, the $5 fee for the certificate goes into its general fund.

Even as the certificates are being issued, King said he and other members of the board are "urging owners of non-conforming property to apply for re-zoning as soon as possible."

Although the board keeps a complete record of all proceedings, King said copies of all building permits are filed with the county auditor in accordance with the provisions of the code.

He explained that these building permits serve as a check for property tax assessments. He pointed out in this connection that all new building, under the law, must be reported to the auditor as a guide for fixing property valuations for the tax duplicate.

Permits, he said, are required for all new construction, whether they conform to the zoning code or are issued for non-conforming buildings by the board after a hearing.

THE BOARD, only a little more than six months old and still in the formative stages, has not set any regular meeting time—and may not, at least for the time being. Instead, it meets on call of the chairman to take up any special questions.

Most of the routine work is handled by Secretary King, but he said he keeps in close touch with the president and other members of the board.

At its last meeting, Chairman Wilt said the board devoted most of the time to a discussion of general policy and the report by the secretary.

During the policy discussion, he said, the board agreed that it should work closely with the Washington C. H. Zoning Board and the Chamber of Commerce Area Development Committee. He explained then—and this was confirmed by King—that the Union Township board feels that the problems of Washington C. H. and the community surrounding it in Union Township are so interlocked that cooperation among the two boards and the C. of C. committee is essential in the development of the entire area.

IN ACCORDANCE with the zoning code approved by the voters last November, Union Township was laid out in zones, with certain areas designated for residences and others for industrial and commercial enterprises.

In brief, the zoning code restricts industrial and commercial construction to those areas designated for this purpose. However, industrial or commercial construction, which does not conform to the zoning code, may (not must) be authorized by the Zoning Board of Appeals after it holds a hearing in accordance with the law; these are classed as non-conforming properties.

Industrial or commercial enterprises already established in areas designated later for residential development also are classed as non-conforming. It is for these properties that the owners must get 1. a "certificate of occupancy" and 2.

make an application for re-zoning within two years.

Although the zoning code places restrictions on certain types of industrial and commercial enterprises and certain types of construction, the two keys to the code are the residential and industrial or commercial areas.

3 Hottest Big Loop Hitters In American League Lineup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American League has three of the major leagues' hottest hitters in its starting lineup of today's All-Star game. George Kell of Baltimore collected 17 hits in his last 36 at bats for a .472 mark. Nellie Fox of the White Sox is 20-for-46 for .435 and Detroit's Al Kaline had nine safeties in his last 16 trips for .563.

The fourth inning is the big one in All-Star play. Of the 190 runs scored in 22 classics, 36 runs have been scored in the fourth frame, 28 in the fifth, 27 in the first, 21 in the eighth, 20 in the seventh, 18 in the sixth, 17 in the third, 13 in the second, 8 in the ninth and 2 in extra innings.

Incidental information about the starting pitchers: Bob Friend of the Pirates has given up 13 homers in 162 innings. Pierce has been tagged for 11 in 142 frames, but the White Sox southpaw has not given up a homer in his last eight starts dating back to May 30.

Ted Williams of the Red Sox takes a 375 All-Star game batting average into today's game. He has 12 hits in 32 at bats, three homers and 10 runs batted in for 11 games. Mickey Mantle of the Yanks has a .308 mark for three contests, including one home run and three RBIs.

Pierce, Whitey Ford of the Yanks and Herb Score of Cleveland, who have been nominated to work in that order by Manager Casey Stengel, have combined season's earned run average of

Fourth Game in Row Won by Penningtons

There was plenty of action when the Pennington Insurance crew nosed out the Chows, 21 to 13, in a 3-inning Little Minor League game at Wilson Field Monday evening in the first game of the evening's twin bill.

With a total of 34 runs crossing the plate, it looked more like a track meet at times. However, it lacked nothing for excitement and, oddly enough, it was fast and clean in the field. Solid hitting was largely responsible for the deluge of runs.

It was the third defeat in as many games for the Chows and the fourth victory in a row for the Penningtons.

Golf's 19th Hole

After getting off to a slow start because of the late spring, golfers here are now taking advantage of every opportunity to get on the fairways—even if they have had to do it between showers occasionally lately.

And the notes in the little book kept by Tony Capuana, the club pro, show they are in full stride.

Mrs. Willard McLean shot a 48 for her best-of-the-season and Mrs. Marvin Rossmann turned in her best-ever 18-hole score of 53-59 for a 112 total. Mrs. Rossmann, the pro noted, is "a great putter."

Charles Buxton, who has been having his troubles, finally came through with a one-under-par 35 for his best-of-the-season. After many years, he finally found that early morning golf was for him; Mrs. Buxton said she had been trying to persuade him to play in the morning for a long time. Incidentally, he is now wearing Bermuda shorts.

Sheets Mann wasn't kidding when he went after his first birdies—golf birdies, that is. He got one on the par 5 No. 4 hole and one on the par 3 No. 6 hole.

BILL BARRETT came through with the coincidence of the year when he shot four round in the same day and got a 47 on each round. There's no record of anyone ever having done that before.

Dick Schlue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Schlue, got a 74 for his best-ever score. His parents are both better-than-average golfers, so he comes by his interest and talent naturally.

Bill McLean, recovering from an illness, is now able to play six holes.

Bloomington Boys Upset Frozen Foods

Bloomington's Rockets, who have been having their ups and downs won their third game in five starts on their home lot Monday evening when they blasted the high flying Frozen Foods, 13 to 0, in a Babe Ruth League game.

Inability to connect safely with Snyder's slants was the main factor in the Frozen Foods' second defeat in six games.

Snyder, who went all the way for the Rockets, had near perfect control. He walked only one batter and was nicked for only one hit.

While the Rockets were able to collect only 6 hits, 16 of them were put on the base paths with bases on balls by the three Frozen Food hurlers.

Both teams played fast and clean ball in the field.

Princeton's Leighton Ford from Glen Riddle, Pa., allowed only two earned runs in 47 2-3 innings if Eastern Intercollegiate League pitching this spring.

They played five innings and they wound up in a 5-5 deadlock. All the boys got to play and they all had a good time. In the words of Carl Wilt, the Seals manager: "tha. was the importaat thing... that the kids had a good time."

Willie Troy Wins By Split Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Troy warmed up slowly here last night but went on to win a split, 10-round middleweight decision over Jerry Luedee a youngster from New Haven, Conn.

Judge Frank Fullam had it a draw, 5-5 in rounds, and five points each under New York State's supplemental point scoring system. Judge Leo Birnbaum saw Troy ahead, 6-4, while referee Dave Feld had it even in rounds but gave Troy eight points to five for Luedee.

Circleville Colt Wins Trot Feature

COLUMBUS (AP)—Jody Hanover, a two-year-old owned by George W. VanCamp of Circleville, last night won both heats of the featured Ohio Colt Racing Assn. trot at Hilliards Raceway.

Harold Hanks drove the bay colt son of Tarheel to a three-length victory in the first mile in 2:17. Then, after starting in the number eight position in the second mile, he came from last at the three quarter pole to win by one and one-half lengths.

Kernels Dump Jets In Upset at Wilson

The Korn Kernels, lurking at the bottom of the Little League with a 2-5 record, pounced on the high-flying Coca-Cola Jets at Wilson Field Monday evening, beating them 4-3.

The Kernels have been one of the teams holding up the cellar of the Little League while the Jets have been in the midst of the four-way tangle going on for first place. The loss gives the Jets a 5-4 record, while it boosts the Kernels' mark to 3-5.

Mike Chakeres led the Kernels to victory in the foray by smacking out a tow-run double in the bottom of the second. Harry O'Cull, Jerry Powell, Kenneth Kesner and Danny Armbrust scored runs for the Kernels in th skirmish.

Not a single run scored for the Jets until the bottom of the fifth, when two came home in order. Another scored in the sixth—but it was too late.

Atoms In Air Or Rabbits?

Home Runs Blossoming Out Everywhere This Season

Editor's Note: Following is the first in a series of articles dealing with home run hitting in the major leagues.

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK — This is the year of the tremendous home run when no ball park is complete without a tape measure. Drives by Mickey Mantle and Joe Adcock go screeching into virgin territory with the surveyors in hot pursuit.

Unless the pitchers become psychic, league and team home run records will be obsolete. Even Babe Ruth's record of 60 in 1927 is in danger. Cooperstown, N. Y. and the baseball museum won't hold all the bats and balls that must be encased in glass tombs.

What is the reason for this spectacular muscle flexing? Is it the lively ball? The lively bat? Lively hitter?

A man assigned to ask these questions has been hanging around bat factories, ball parks, hotel lobbies and laboratories for weeks, listening through key holes and picking up vital information in coffee houses. He gets a zillion answers and a tangled mass of evidence that leads deeper into a maze.

It is an interesting sport for you can get almost any answer you want.

The fellow who sells pennants, caps and souvenirs across the street from yankee Stadium knows the answer.

"You can't tell me it ain't that atomic energy in the air," he said. "All them tests put that stuff in the air. Don't you know they even run the mile under 4 minutes now. Same reason."

As this man at various times had blamed heavy snow, heat, drought and tree caterpillars on the atom, it was possible that he had a one-track approach to this serious problem.

A veteran pitcher, trying to make a comeback, volunteered his opinion:

"Rabbit ball? Are you kidding? You can feel the heart beat if you grip it tight."

Another veteran player, now retired to a life of contemplation behind a radio mike, had the same idea:

"There may be no rabbit in the ball but roll it across the outfield and you'll see it nibble at the grass."

Casey Stengel, New York Yankee manager, didn't take the question as seriously as some "Is it livelier?" he asked before answering his own question in customary style. "Well, we're offering Mickey Mantle a $25,000 bonus if he avoids hitting the ball through the box. We don't want any pitchers hurt. And everything Skowron (Bill) hits through the box, those pitchers go white."

Mantle, who failed by a few inches to become the first man ever to hit a fair ball out of the Stadium (May 30) also joins the lively ball side.

"It's livelier," said Mantle. "I hit long balls when I broke into the league and three of my longest were in 1953. But I don't think the ball has gotten deader this year."

Walter B. Gerould, president of Spalding, said at the factory in Chicopee, Mass. "There definitely has been no change in the baseball for a number of years."

"The specifications set up by the National and American leagues have been the same for 20 years or more. At one time, about 1936 or 1937, the National used to have a slightly higher seam but they have been the same for about 20 years."

(Next — The bat.)

The original 1876 baseball was the same size as the major league ball used today, with a circumference of 9 to 9 1/4 inches.

3 Hottest Big Loop Hitters In American League Lineup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American League has three of the major leagues' hottest hitters in its starting lineup of today's All-Star game. George Kell of Baltimore collected 17 hits in his last 36 at bats for a .472 mark. Nellie Fox of the White Sox is 20-for-46 for .435 and Detroit's Al Kaline had nine safeties in his last 16 trips for .563.

The fourth inning is the big one in All-Star play. Of the 190 runs scored in 22 classics, 36 runs have been scored in the fourth frame, 28 in the fifth, 27 in the first, 21 in the eighth, 20 in the seventh, 18 in the sixth, 17 in the third, 13 in the second, 8 in the ninth and 2 in extra innings.

Incidental information about the starting pitchers: Bob Friend of the Pirates has given up 13 homers in 162 innings. Pierce has been tagged for 11 in 142 frames, but the White Sox southpaw has not given up a homer in his last eight starts dating back to May 30.

Ted Williams of the Red Sox takes a .375 All-Star game batting average into today's game. He has 12 hits in 32 at bats, three homers and 10 runs batted in for 11 games. Mickey Mantle of the Yankees has a .308 mark for three contests, including one home run and three RBIs.

Pierce, Whitey Ford of the Yankees and Herb Score of Cleveland, who have been nominated to work in that order by Manager Casey Stengel, have combined season's earned run average of

Fourth Game in Row Won by Penningtons

There was plenty of action when the Pennington Insurance crew nosed out the Chows, 21 to 13, in a 3-inning Little League game at Wilson Field Monday evening in the first game of the evening's twin bill.

With a total of 34 runs crossing the plate, it looked more like a track meet at times. However, it lacked nothing for excitement and, oddly enough, it was fast and clean in the field. Solid hitting was largely responsible for the deluge of runs.

It was the third defeat in as many games for the Chows and the fourth victory in a row for the Penningtons.

Golf's 19th Hole

After getting off to a slow start because of the late spring, golfers here are now taking advantage of every opportunity to get on the fairways—even if they have had to do it between showers occasionally lately.

And the notes in the little book kept by Tony Capuana, the club pro, show they are in full stride.

Mrs. Willard McLean shot a 48 for her best-of-the-season and Mrs. Marvin Roszmann turned in her best-ever 18-hole score of 53-59 for a 112 total. Mrs. Roszmann, the pro noted, is "a great putter."

Charles Buxton, who has been having his troubles, finally came through with a one-under-par 35 for his best-of-the-season. After many years, he finally found that early morning golf was for him; Mrs. Buxton said she had been trying to persuade him to play in the morning for a long time. Incidentally, he is now wearing Bermuda shorts.

Skeet Mann wasn't kidding when he went after his first birdies—golf birdies, that is. He got one on the par 5 No. 4 hole and one on the par 3 No. 6 hole.

BILL BARRETT came through with the coincidence of the year when he shot four round in the same day and got a 47 on each round. There's no record of anyone ever having done that before.

Dick Schlue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Schlue, got a 74 for his best-ever score. His parents are both better-than-average golfers, so he comes by his interest and talent naturally.

Bill McLean, recovering from an illness, is now able to play six holes.

Some golfers remember Len Tur-

Bloomington Boys Upset Frozen Foods

Bloomington's Rockets, who have been having their ups and downs won their third game in five starts on their home lot Monday evening when they blanked the high flying Frozen Foods, 13 to 0, in a Babe Ruth League game.

Inability to connect safely with Snyder's slants was the main factor in the Frozen Foods' second defeat in six games.

Snyder, who went all the way for the Rockets, had near perfect control. He walked only one batter and was nicked for only one hit.

While the Rockets were able to collect only 6 hits, 16 of them were put on the base paths with bases on balls by the three Frozen Food hurlers.

Both teams played fast and clean ball in the field.

Attorney Is Fined; Failed Cut Weeds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Judge Clarence Denning found Attorney Robert Fosdick, 57, guilty yesterday on four charges of failing to cut weeds on vacant land he owns here. The charges are under a city ordinance to combat air pollution.

Judge Denning fined Fosdick $20 on each charge and gave him 30 days to appeal. Fosdick contended the anti-weed ordinance was unconstitutional and discriminated against property owners.

Eight Indicted By Grand Jury

Four Cases Ignored
At Special Session

The April grand jury, ending a special session at 3:50 P. M. Monday, returned eight indictments out of 13 cases investigated.

Those indicted, and the offenses charged, are:

Jame. Beatty Jr., raping a girl under 16 years of age;

Joseph McDowell, stabbing to wound Oral W. Jarrell, on April 14;

Charles Leo Mustard, unlawfully assaulting a girl under 16 years of age by taking unlawful liberties with her but not committing or intending to commit rape;

William Adam Temple, arson, by starting a fire which destroyed the barn and contents owned by Grace Hill, on April 24;

Howard Birchfield, stealing tap and die set and grinder valued at $225 on January 19, the property of Walter H. Seifried, and a second count of stealing $200 worth of tools and electric drills owned by Orville Moats on January 9;

Weldon Briggs, passing a $19.25 check May 26 without funds with intent to defraud;

R. E. Barnett, cashing a worthless $5.00 check at Sparks Grocery at West Lancaster May 23.

Cases ignored were:

Floyd Clay, charged with issuing a check with intent to defraud;

Clinton J. Long, charged with rape;

Edward Johnson, charged with issuing a check with insufficient funds, and Donald W. Pritt, charged with defrauding.

Fourteen witnesses were examined during the session. Heber Row was foreman of the jury.

Those indicted will be arraigned beginning at 9:30 a. m. Friday, Judge John P. Case announced.

1 and 2-Teacher Schools in Ohio May Be Outlawed

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state board of education was scheduled today to receive a proposed set of standards which would outlaw 197 one and two-teacher elementary schools in Ohio.

Byrne E. Shaffer, Montpelier, chairman of a board committee to draw up the standards, said the requirements for these too-small schools and one on teacher certification, are the most drastic features of standards proposed.

The set of standards, mandated by the legislation which set up the state school board, would require:

"Commencing with the school year 1959-1960, each elementary school shall have at least three full-time teachers, and not more than two grades housed in the same classroom."

Judge Max G. Dice disposed of four cases at the Tuesday morning session of Municipal Court.

John Beatty, charged with illegal fishing in Deer Creek, filed by Game Protector David J. Krupa, was fined $15 and costs.

Mary J. Baughn, city, for failing to yield the right of way, drew $5 and costs. The charge followed a collision between the car she was driving and one driven by Marion Elmo Wilson at the intersection of Highland Ave. and Fairview Dr.

Robert L. Ona, Sweetwater, Tenn., forfeited a $10 bond for driving 43 miles an hour on Columbus Ave.

Edward Feutzel, Columbus, forfeited a $20 bond for 48 miles an hour on Columbus Avenue.

Cop-Killer Case Given Grand Jury

CLEVELAND (AP)—Norman E. Walker, 32, of Bedford, charged with first degree murder in the shotgun slaying of a Valley View patrolman, was held to the grand jury yesterday at a hearing.

"I waive preliminary hearing and want to go to the grand jury," Walker said after his rights were explained to him.

He is charged with the slaying of Patrolman Garner Robertson Jr., 43, in Independence early Sunday morning. Robertson was hit by a shotgun blast in the chest when he stepped from his police cruiser to investigate a parked car.

Inmate Beaten

HAMILTON (AP)—Kenneth Lytle, 18, of Hamilton is in "critical" condition in a local hospital with injuries Sheriff Charles B. Walke said he received when beaten by other inmates of the Butler County jail last Friday.

SEW 'N SEWS

Fair planning is taking up all the spare time of the Sew 'n Sews. Plans for the Fair occupied the girls at a regular meeting held at the home of the group's adviser, Mrs. Raymond Wissler.

Members discussed projects and activities connected with the Fair at the meeting. Pat Cutlip gave a demonstration on the proper way to apply makeup.

Mrs. Jess Crago and her daughter, Carolyn, were guests at the meeting.

Judging of projects was set for July 11.

BUSY BEAVERS

The Busy Beavers were as busy as beavers at their regular meeting, sewing on their projects in order to get them done in time for judging.

Group members also discussed their Fair booth and general Fair activities at the session.

The meeting was held at the home of the group's adviser, Jo Reiff.

Stiff Penalty

Voted in New

Narcotics Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has sent the White House a bill prescribing stiffer penalties, including death, in the hope of discouraging the peddling of narcotics.

The measure is expected to be signed into law by President Eisenhower since it carries out recommendations made early this year by a Cabinet committee.

The bill, passed by the Senate and House yesterday, would increase present penalties for narcotics law violations and permit the death sentence for persons who sell or give heroin to children under 18. The death penalty would apply when recommended by juries in states permitting capital punishment.

Without a jury's recommendation, the penalty for the heroin law violation could be 10 years to life, even for a first offense. In addition, the bill would outlaw heroin in this country except for research and require all heroin to be turned over to the Treasury Department within 120 days.

Penalties for dope peddling are more than doubled by the bill. They are increased from the present 2 to 5 years for a first offense to 5 to 10 years and from the present 5 to 10 years for a second offense to 10 to 40 years for a second or subsequent violation. Maximum fines are increased from $2,000 to $20,000.

Sen. Daniel (D-Tex), author of the Senate bill and chairman of a Senate committee which investigated illegal narcotics traffic on a national scale, said the measure "will be the biggest blow ever dealt the traffic in the U. S."

Sen. George Pushing
Social Security Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today he hopes to cap his 34-year Senate career with a victory for his proposal to set up a program of Social Security benefits for disabled persons.

George, retiring from the Senate at the end of this year at 78, introduced yesterday the compromise amendment on which the Democrats are pinning their hopes for a Senate triumph on the disability program.

The Social Security bill, of which George's proposal would be a part, is one of the major pieces of business remaining for the 1956 session. It is expected to come up for debate next week.

The disability program is a new concept. The Social Security system heretofore has provided only retirement and survivor benefits.

The House last year voted in its version of the bill to set up payments for persons totally and permanently disabled at age 50 or higher. But this was knocked out of the measure in the Senate Finance Committee this year. The administration objected to the cost and said the program would be difficult to administer.

GEORGE'S PLAN, like the House bill, would provide benefits for those disabled at 50 or older. And it would set up a special tax for the payments and segregate revenues in a separate fund.

This would meet the objection voiced by many senators, including some Democrats, that the cost of the disability program is unpredictable and might cause heavy inroads on the trust fund built up for retirement and survivor payments. This fund now exceeds $22 billion.

BOHN ELECTED TOP OFFICER OF ELKS

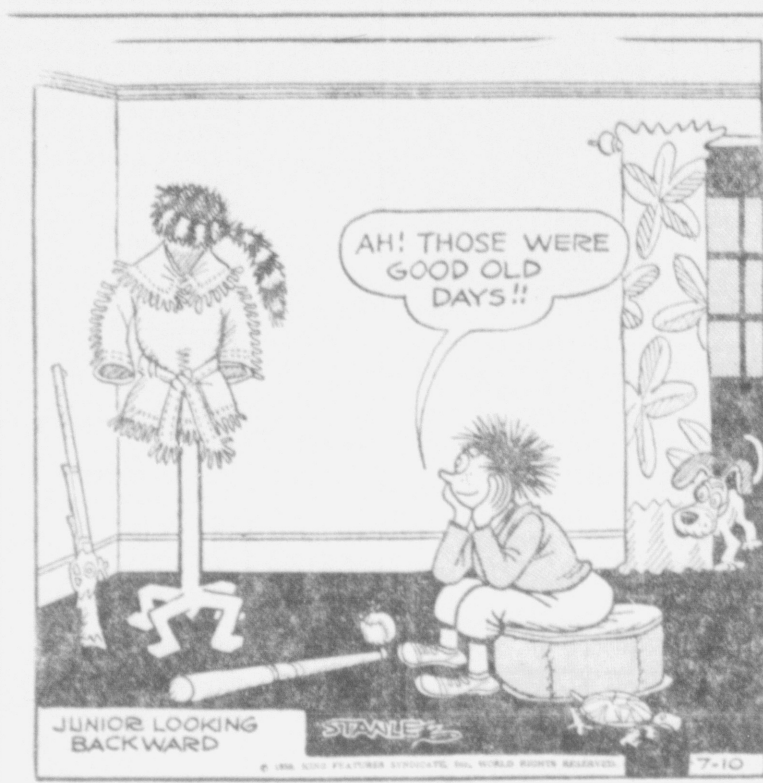

CHICAGO (AP)—Fred L. Bohn, 54, a Zanesville, Ohio, businessman, yesterday was named grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in the first contested election for Elksdom's top post in 29 years.

Bohn, partner in a Zanesville plumbing firm and a former newspaper editor, defeated Cyril A. Kremsler, 56, head of a Cleveland printing firm, 1,333 to 745.

Although any Elk is eligible to run for grand exalted ruler, an Elk spokesman said it has been customary to elect a man who has risen from lower offices in the organization. Bohn, who has held various high offices in the BPOE, was the organization's candidate.

$2 Million Fund Reserved For New School Buildings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education at its monthly meeting Monday night approved reservation of $2,026,680 in state aid for new school buildings in eight districts.

The reservations, recommended by acting Superintendent of Instruction R. M. Eymann, included $153,400 for a $653,000 high school in Licking county. The funds come from a 7-million dollar state aid appropriation by the Legislature early this year.

Other reservations were to Leontonia, Columbiana County $233,700; South Lebanon, Warren County, $210,000; Mad River Local, Montgomery County $367,000; Madison Local, Montgomery County, $308,580; Highland Local, Medina County, $180,000; Northwest Local, Scioto County, $374,000, and Mt. Orab Local, Brown County, $200,000.

The board took no action on the appointment of a new state superintendent of instruction and board President Robert A. Manchester said "he was inclined to think" no action would be taken at today's session.

Manchester said there would be no board meeting in August thus virtually assuring postponement of an appointment to the $20,000-a-year post at least until September.

In other actions last night the board:

Voted down an attempt by John W. Morrison Sr. of Aurora to make a reservation of $257,000 in state aid for a new $477,000 high school in the Aurora district of Portage County. Eymann had recommended disapproval of the measure on ground that a consolidation of districts in the area was needed.

Approved grants of state aid of $84,000 to Southeastern Local in Ross County and $165,000 to Salem Liberty Local in Washington County.

Supported Eymann's refusal to certify as a high school a $300,000 government-owned building in the atomic energy plant area in Scioto Local in Pike County. Eymann refused to certify the building because as a high school it will have only 77 pupils.

1 and 2-Teacher Schools in Ohio May Be Outlawed

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state board of education was scheduled today to receive a proposed set of standards which would outlaw 197 one and two-teacher elementary schools in Ohio.

W. E. Shaffer, Montpelier, chairman of a board committee to draw up the standards, said the requirements for these too-small schools and one on teacher certification, are the most drastic features of standards proposed.

The set of standards, mandated by the legislation which set up the state school board, would require:

"Commencing with the school year 1959-1960, each elementary school shall have at least three full-time teachers, and not more than two grades housed in the same classroom."
